NO PAYMENT—In answer to a Freeman inquiry as to whether contract specifications were being met in the filling of evacuation sites in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project, UR Agency Executive Director Eric Hemphill said they were not. When asked what action he would take Hemphill said he would stop payment until the site on East Union Street and Hasbrouck Avenue is reexcavated, wood used as fill in violation of the contract removed and the site leveled according to contract specifications. Pursuant to this action Hemphill said that test borings will be taken over the entire Urban Renewal area that has been leveled to determine if contract specifications are being met. College Riot Resumes in Jackson

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Rioting Negro students seized control of the Jackson State College campus today, driving police back with a barrage of rocks and bottles before burning barricades and looting at least one store.

An estimated 1,500 students swarmed through the business area surrounding the state's largest Negro college, throwing up a barrage across Lynch Street, a main business artery cutting through the campus.

Police sealed off a 15-20-block area during the all-night melee and rioters retaliated by burning the barricades and firing shots into the air.

One unidentified student was reported injured, hit on the head by a bottle thrown from a dormitory window.

The riot followed efforts of two Negro policemen to arrest a Negro man on charges of speeding on Lynch Street, and student sources said there was resentment about the street running through the campus.

When the area quieted at dawn, several white newsmen walked past barricades toward the campus, but a line of rioters advanced cursing. One carried a hammer and others had bricks. When one yelled "Give me a gun," the newsmen retreated.

Dr. John Peoples, president of the college, said he had no comment. Later the administration office advised callers, "Everyone is unavailable for comment. We don't even know what's happening ourselves."

New City Hall Will Be Topic

A measure dealing with construction of a new city hall in Downtown's Broadway East urban renewal project is due for consideration at a recessed Common Council meeting tentatively scheduled for the week of May 22, Alderman-at-Large Francis R. Koenig noted today.

Also due for action is the deeding of property in the Downtown urban renewal site to Kingston Urban Renewal Agency; a proposed bond ordinance approving some $13,000 for the proposed John F. Kennedy Park area at Kingston Point, and consideration of minor zoning changes.

Sections of lower Hasbrouck Avenue and East Union Street, in the Downtown project are to be deeded to the KURA.

Committee meetings are to be held next week to consider legislation scheduled for the recessed meeting.

Mayor Raymond W. Garra-ghan had cited the need for a new city hall before his election in 1965, had made little mention of the proposal during his first year in office, but earlier this year cited figures to indicate that one could be built with not too heavy a cost to the city by use of a long-term bond issue.

Sixth Ward Alderman Joseph Epstein, at the April Common Council meeting offered a resolution asking for committee study of the city hall proposal and it was adopted by an 11-2 vote with aldermen John J. Naccarato (R) Third Ward and Emilio A. Primo (D) Fourth Ward opposing.

Adoption of Local Law 1 On Supervisor's Agenda

A move for adoption of Local Law 1 relating to town supervisors serving in dual capacities is expected to be on the county Board of Supervisor's agenda tonight.

Under reapportionment county legislators will be elected to serve in place of the Board of Supervisors. Local Law 1 if approved, probably by permissive referendum, would permit town supervisors and other officials of the town to serve as county legislators, if elected in November.

A resolution to stop the exploitation of Memorial Day and close all businesses except those which normally and usually remain open on Sunday, will come before the Board of Supervisors this evening.

The resolution calls for a public hearing on Local Law No. 2, a law which would prohibit businesses from remaining open on Memorial Day and sponsoring sales and promotions.

Offered by Supervisors Peter Williams (R), Saugerties; Joseph Martorana (R), Plattekill; James Rapp (R), First Ward; Roger Mabie (D), Esopus and Arthur Smith (D), Eighth Ward, the resolution calls for a public hearing on the Local Law.

City Fire Fees To Be Mayor's Con-Con Topic

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, proponent of taxes to relieve the load on real estate, today noted that he has been invited to attend a May 17 Convention meeting in Albany, and will emphasize his proposed fire district fee for cities as well as townships.

Abram D. Beame, chairman of the Committee on Intergovernmental Relations of the Constitution Convention, in a letter to the mayor this week wrote:

"In view of your intimate experience with subjects before the Committee on Intergovernmental Relations, I am pleased on behalf of the committee, to invite you to appear at a public hearing to be held on Wednesday, May 17 at 10:30 a. m. in the Assembly Parlor, State Capitol, Albany.

"I am enclosing a copy of a public statement, which sets forth the scope of the hearing. If your secretary will call my office at the State Capitol, we will try to arrange a time for your appearance which best fits your day's schedule."

Asked this morning as to his chance in the convention of getting approval of the proposed fire district fee, the mayor was optimistic.

On a local basis the mayor had proposed early in his administration a small sales tax to be established on a county-wide basis, and so-called sewer and utility taxes, which had been proposed in other administrations. He was unable to get approval on any of these. The fire district fee, he feels, is a just one, because residents of the county's townships have long been paying this type tax.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring warnings, a Soviet warship brushed against the U.S. Navy destroyer Walker early today in a second incident of confrontation between American and Russian ships on the high seas, the Pentagon said.

The Walker was scraped by another Soviet ship Wednesday. Today's incident occurred in the same general area of the Sea of Japan, about 300 nautical miles west-southwest of the Japanese island of Hokkaido.

"The incident occurred when the Soviet destroyer turned into the Walker, despite the latter's warnings," a Pentagon statement said.

The Pentagon said the collision occurred at 1:33 a.m. EDT. As in Wednesday's bumping together of destroyers, "there were no casualties and only light damage was reported," the Pentagon said.

Not Identified

The Soviet ship, not identified by name, was described as a destroyer of the Krupnyy class.

The Walker, along with two other destroyers and the aircraft carrier Hornet, have been undergoing antisubmarine warfare training maneuvers in the Sea of Japan.

Wednesday another Soviet destroyer — not the one involved in today's incident — made several close sweeps toward the American task group, coming as near as 50 feet on two occasions and finally bumping up against the Walker, causing minor damage.

The United States officially protested to the Soviet government over the first incident and was expected to file another complaint as a result of today's collision.

Sources view the Soviet actions as harassment. The situation has taken on grave tones in view of the Vietnam war. Russia is a major supplier of war materials to North Vietnam.

U.S. officials said they would await details before trying to assess the significance of the Wednesday collision in the Sea of Japan. A Pentagon spokesman labeled it an accident, but the State Department said the fact the Soviets were repeatedly warned about coming too close to a group of American ships speaks for itself.

The State Department protested "close maneuvering and violations of the rules of the road" by the Soviet destroyer Besslednyi, resulting in her colliding with the USS Walker.

The scraping caused minor damage to the two ships and no one was hurt, the Pentagon said.

State Department sources said the incident could indicate a further toughening of Moscow's attitude toward the United States as the Vietnam war intensifies.

Overzealous Sailors

But the sources added it could just be a case of an overzealous performance by Soviet sailors, similar to the nuisance-making they said the Soviets have been carrying out against American ships for some time.

Despite the U. S. protest, not all the details about the incident are available in Washington, officials said.

The Pentagon said the Soviet destroyer harassed the Walker and three other American ships for 90 minutes before the collision.

The Walker and two other destroyers, the Davidson and the Taylor, along with the carrier Hornet, were in training maneuvers as an antisubmarine task group in international waters off the northern tip of the Japanese island of Hokkaido, the Pentagon said.

The Soviet ship ignored several warnings against coming too close to the American ships.

the Defense Department said. It added that the Besslednyi, a 425-foot destroyer, apparently wanted to observe the training. The Defense Department said the Soviets made several close approaches, including two within 50 feet.

Casualties Increase As Viet War Heats Up

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military headquarters today reported a sharp rise in American and enemy dead last week resulting from battles just below the demilitarized zone.

The weekly casualty report said 274 Americans were killed in action, equaling the previously weekly high recorded six weeks before. The U.S. Command said 1,903 enemy were killed, 751 more than the week before although not a record.

A total of 1,748 Americans were reported wounded last week, and 18 were missing or captured, the U.S. Command said.

Hard Battles

The rise in casualties resulted from hard battles in the northernmost provinces, where U.S. Marines have been fighting off repeated Communist attacks launched and supplied from nearby bases in the jungle and in North Vietnam.

While B52 bombers continued to pound those enemy bases in the northwest corner of South Vietnam, the Marine battlefront shifted 100 miles southeast Wednesday. In an eight-hour battle 25 miles southwest of the big U.S. base at Da Nang, the Marines reported killing 117 North Vietnamese regulars. Marine casualties were 19 dead and 72 wounded.

The U.S. Command said about 175 men of the 3rd Marine Regiment hit a force of perhaps 300 North Vietnamese dug in on a 300-foot hill. About 300 more Marines quickly joined the fight and with artillery and air support battled the Communists until the Leathernecks took the hill.

One of the air strikes accidentally hit a Marine company killing three Leathernecks and wounding 17.

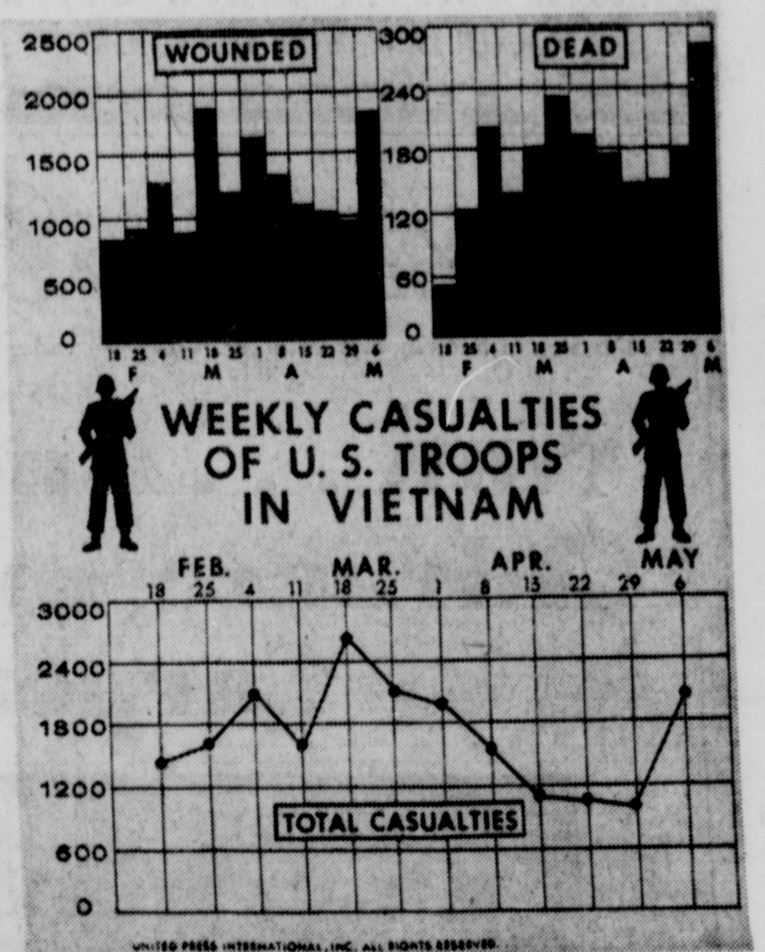

U.S. spokesmen reported bloody engagements at scattered points in which it said a total of 278 Communists were killed.

Caught in Open

The spokesmen said a Communist battalion was caught in the open this morning only about 30 miles northwest of Saigon. The first sudden strike by U.S. jets killed an estimated 53 Viet Cong, and throughout the day 23 more jet strikes were poured into the wooded area.

The Air Force reported catching another group of Reds in the open in the northern province of Quang Tri Wednesday and killing 45 of them.

The Air Force also reported the loss of an F100 Super Sabre jet to Red ground fire Wednesday, the 174th plane lost to enemy action in South Vietnam. The pilot was killed.

Communist gunners also downed a troop-carrying helicopter in which three soldiers were injured. At least three more choppers were shot up and several more were slightly damaged in the Mekong Delta when their rotors set off Communist pressure mines in a landing zone.

Excellent Results

U.S. headquarters reported that photo reconnaissance of Wednesday's raids against two power plants in the Halphong area showed excellent results. A spokesman said one power plant, just outside the city, was no longer serviceable and the other inside the city was badly damaged.

The Air Force said the Navy planes that struck the MIG airfield at Kien An Wednesday, just outside Haiphong, cratered the taxiway and both ends of the runway.

A spokesman said that although the Haiphong raids were made in clear weather, most of the rest of North Vietnam was covered by clouds Wednesday and pilots were limited to a total of 81 missions.

OLD GLORY—It's a Grand Old Flag. Or so goes a popular patriotic song. But when no one showed up to claim the possessions of World War II veteran John Neeley, who died last week in an Augusta rooming house, his American flag was used to bundle his belongings before they were dumped in an ash can. A passing motorist rescued the flag. UPI TELEPHOTO

Chamber Speaker Stresses City Planning Need

City planning was the theme at the annual banquet of Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night at Governor Clinton Hotel.

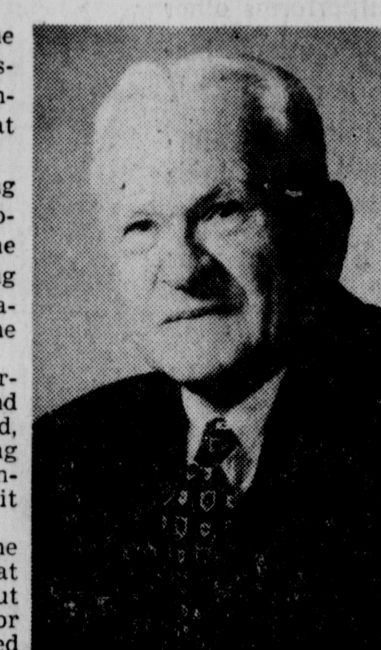

George Svirsky, outgoing president of the city's promotional organization, set the tone for the evening by stressing the need for individual dedication and commitment to the area's cause.

Addressing the impressive array of talent from business and service groups, Svirsky said, "It takes all of us to bring the Kingston Chamber of Commerce to the high standards it deserves."

He spoke of apathy and the "nonchalance to problems" that beset the area, and pointed out that, "never has a president or vice-president of a bank served as president" of the chamber, and that, up to the time of Harry C. Kaprelian's presidency, no personality from area industry has involved himself in the chamber's efforts.

"We need top echelon men to do a top job," he said. With Clair S. Sheaffer, toastmaster, presiding, S. James Matthews, Kingston attorney and delegate to the State Constitutional Convention, was introduced as the June 30 incoming president.

Matthews, elected to the post Tuesday, spoke of a "positive attitude towards the community," wherein, "everyone should play an active role" building upon "the fine foundation laid down in the past."

Seven new directors were introduced: V. James Andretta Jr. of Colony Liquor Distributors; William E. Belser of the accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company; Mrs. Allan L. Hanstein; IBM's Dean M. Kintner; Dr. Jeremiah Sachs, dentist; Leroy Stothoff of New York Telephone, and Richard L. Treat of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Awards were presented to outstanding committee chairman chose by the vice presidents in charge of their respective divisions.

Under Robert L. Strickland, vice president in charge of the Business Development Division, Paul F. Coon was cited for his contributions as the chairman of the tourist and convention promotion committee.

Matthews, who headed the Economic Development Division, found that two chairman had matched each other's efforts: Kintner of area manpower development, and Dr. Sachs, who chaired the local government affairs committee.

Organization Improvement's Edwin B. Bolz nominated William R. Stall of the budget and finance committee. Stall's com-

Aden Living Out Last Months of British Rule

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

ADEN (AP) — This ancient British trading station and military base is living out its last months of British rule with a sense of inescapable doom.

Daily bomb explosions, waves of violence, murders and gun battles in the murky back streets—all have become part of the normal pattern of life and pointers to the future.

Grew Rich

The Indian and Arab merchants who grew rich off the troops and tourists in Aden's Steamer Point shopping area have stopped ordering new stock. They no longer bother to wipe the dust from their piles of cheap cameras and Japanese radios. No one repairs the windows shattered by terrorist hand grenades.

Tower's Raven

England's Charles II predicted that England would fall if ravens ever left the Tower of London, so the Tower always keeps at least one raven traditionally.

Law and order have become largely theoretical. Political murders average 10 per week and crime investigation is virtually at a standstill. Most Arab police inspectors have been killed and their British colleagues generally speak no Arabic.

British magistrates still function, but no jury dares to hand down a conviction for a serious crime.

In Government House, the sprawling naitop residence of Aden's colonial governors for a century, policy planners pay lip service to the British-sponsored South Arabian Federation. But no one seems to believe the federation can survive many weeks after British rule ends next year.

"What's the use trying to break our heads—and getting shot at in the bargain—over what will happen here after we leave?" one British official said with a shrug.

Officials and merchants, taxi drivers and beggars, hotel managers and shoeshine boys, all seem to share a conviction that independence will bring anarchy and bloodshed.

They face the approaching chaos as though hypnotized. "Nothing can be done," said one Indian shopkeeper. "I will leave with the British. There is no hope for this place, no hope at all."

Some Disagree

Some British businessmen and bankers disagree. They believe they can continue working in Aden after independence, even if the federation collapses and is replaced by an Egyptian-dominated regime of "revolutionary socialism."

Britain is committed to giving the South Arabian Federation total independence in 1968 and liquidating the military base here.

The federation is a loose gathering of feudal sheikdoms. The city of Aden and its 200,000 strong urban proletariat is nominally one of the federal states—in fact the federation is meaningless without Aden.

The sprawling city with its harbor, built around two barren, extinct volcanoes that jut out of the desert into the Indian Ocean, is the only viable part of the British protectorate stretching 700 miles along Arabia's south coast.

Some of the other federal states are so backward that they hardly contain one pair of shoes per 100 inhabitants. In others, almost the entire male population roams the mountains in bandit gangs described by the British as "dissident tribesmen."

The British are hastily training what they call the "federal regular army," whose loyalty to the federal government is questionable.

Exiled nationalist leaders smile when they talk of the federal troops.

"They will be no obstacle to us when the time comes—quite the contrary," said Abdullah Asnag, political brain of FLOSY, the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen. It claims to be the only meaningful nationalist movement in Aden and controller of most of the terrorism, but it has at least two equally violent rival organizations. Most of the casualties lately have been victims of fighting between rival gangs.

Asnag and the other FLOSY leaders have headquarters in a drab, two-story building in Tai'zz, the dusty twin capital of the Yemen Republic, 120 miles northwest of Aden.

The rival movements also operate from Tai'zz. All receive money, weapons and encouragement from Egypt.

Between Aden and Tai'zz there is a vast, mountainous no man's land where every able-bodied man carries his own gun and apparently makes his own law. British rule in effect ends on the outskirts of Aden.

Weaver on Cruise

Seaman John E. Weaver, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Weaver of 119 Canal Street, Port Ewen, is participating in refresher training cruise at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba as a crewmember aboard the attack transport USS Monrovia.

The cruise comes after an overhaul at Todd Shipyards in Brooklyn, and includes drills on seamanship, gunnery, navigation, damage control and security.

Set Coed Sex Seminars At Fordham University

By JOHN VINOCUR

NEW YORK (AP) — Fordham University, one of the nation's largest Roman Catholic schools, will begin a series of coeducational sex discussions next fall dealing "frankly and directly" with premarital intercourse, conception and the methods of contraception.

"We know we are establishing a precedent," Martin J. Meade, dean of students, said today.

"But our primary concern is the students. It's apparent that many undergraduates are confused about relationships between men and women."

No Morality Talks

Contraceptives, Meade said, would be discussed without touching on their morality. This approach, he contended, would not constitute a break with Roman Catholic opposition to the use of artificial birth control devices.

The decision to offer the series of lectures and discussions came after 150 women at the university's Thomas More College presented a petition asking for birth control information.

Fordham previously had given courses in courtship and marriage. "The petition was the impetus," Meade said, "but the idea had been under discussion for a while."

The program will be open to Fordham's 12,000 students, including 670 women, its faculty and administration. A physician to counsel on individual problems will augment the seminars.

Frank, Direct Talks

"Our feeling is that if any of our students are trying to reach a personal decision regarding premarital intercourse they should do so with a full understanding of all the facts and implications. We will approach the subject frankly and directly."

Meade, who is 35 and the father of five children, said the program would offer "a detailed presentation of the various means which are used to prevent conception and also a discussion of the efforts of various fertility clinics to enable women to conceive who have been unable to."

The talks and discussions on contraception will be offered by physicians, psychiatrists, sociologists and theologians.

"The purpose is to provide information which will result in a more mature and informed approach to marriage," Meade said.

State Vols To Consider Consolidation

The Firemen's Association of the State of New York (FASNY) will hold a state wide conference in the DeWitt Clinton Hotel, Albany, on Saturday, May 20 at 3 p. m.

Fowler E. Finch of Sidney Center, president of the Firemen's Association of the State of New York said, over 250 delegates from various regional and county firemanic associations will discuss the constitutional convention and its effect on the volunteer fire service.

They will represent the more than 100,000 volunteer firemen in New York State. He said one of the topics on the agenda will be the possible consolidation of fire districts.

FASNY Legislative Chairman Fred A. Williams of Great Neck, L. I. will preside at the one day marathon session. He said the volunteer firemen will announce their position on the constitutional convention following the Albany meeting.

Hoffa Returned To Jail; Judge Rejects Appeal

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Thomas Ewing Parks of Nashville, Tenn., and Larry Campbell of Detroit were also re-sentenced on the charge.

U.S. District Judge Frank W. Wilson denied in Chattanooga, Tenn., Wednesday the appeal which had been based on an allegation by Hoffa and three co-defendants that the federal government used electronic eavesdropping and wiretapping during their trials at Chattanooga in 1964.

Hoffa, who had been taken to Chattanooga for the hearing was already on his way back to Lewisburg when Wilson issued the denial on the grounds that Hoffa's attorneys had failed to present any evidence at the hearing. Hoffa began serving his eight-year sentence at Lewisburg in March.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 11, 1967

MOTORIST BILLS

Governor Rockefeller has signed into law a number of motorist related bills in a further endeavor to reduce the appalling death toll through the elimination of certain hazards.

It will be well for motor vehicle operators to take note of these new measures.

County superintendents of highways are authorized to remove any vehicle left unattended more than 24 hours on any county road.

Driving a motor vehicle without having at least one hand on the wheel, or in case of a handicapped person at least one prosthetic device or aid will be a violation of the law. This law should have been on the statute books a long time ago, however it won't do any good unless it is enforced.

Both these laws are effective July 1.

Effective September 1, a motorist will be required to pay at least 10 per cent of his annual premium for an automobile insurance policy before his vehicle can be registered in New York State for the first time.

Effective October 1, vendors or solicitors will be barred from occupying any part of a public highway, except in a city or village. Motorists will be prohibited from standing or parking within 30 feet of a yield sign and all keys must be removed from an unattended vehicle.

The traffic death toll for Ulster County thus far this year is 14.

Strict observance of all highway rules and regulations will bring about a sharp reduction in this senseless slaughter.

DIRECT PRIMARY BILL

The direct primary elections bill, which was co-sponsored by Ulster County Assemblyman Wilson, has been signed into law by Governor Rockefeller over the advice of both parties. The leaders are calling it the primary nobody wanted, because it is not a simple primary election to make party nominations for state offices.

The bill will do away with state conventions, though not with party designations.

Starting next year, there will be no state party convention to nominate statewide officers such as governor and United States senator. The state party committee will designate the candidates, but their choices can be challenged in statewide primaries. Any candidate who receives 25 per cent of his party committee vote can challenge the committee's choice. Also any enrolled member of the party can get on the primary ballot by obtaining at least 10,000 valid signatures, with at least 50 names from each of three-quarters of the state's 62 counties.

Obviously, the bill is not the true direct primary measure the Governor requested. While signing it without enthusiasm, he hoped its imperfections would be corrected before the 1968 primary in which it would first be used for statewide offices. The less complications, the more chance of allowing all contenders to get on the primary ballot, instead of competing against committee named candidates. The new law definitely messes up the democratic process.

FULBRIGHT APOLOGIZES

An interview with Senator F. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, quoted him as charging that some leading Congressional supporters of the Vietnam war were influenced by their interest in booming defense industries in their home states. The furor raised by publication of the interview was followed by an apology from Fulbright for "any embarrassment" to members of Congress.

The interview was published in Newsday of Garden City, L. I., the daily which Bill Moyers, former press secretary to President Johnson, is now publisher. It said that Fulbright had singled out as influenced by local defense contractors Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee; Rep. L. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina, chairman of the House Armed Services committee; and Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, high ranking member both of Armed Services and Atomic Energy committees.

Fulbright said in the interview that businessmen and some Government officials regarded the Vietnam conflict as a nice little war, not too much killing but a big help to the economy. "No apology can expunge the disdain the interview reflected for men in key positions to see the war through to a satisfactory conclusion."

The interview impugns as unworthy the aims of men who are sturdily supporting a conflict which the Reds have imposed on us, while Fulbright continuously attacks our defense of freedom.

Undersecretary of State Katzenbach says that demonstrations are an easy out for those who protest. His suggestion, that they join the Peace or Teacher Corps. That would be a positive way of showing their concern for others.

The Golden Egg

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A lady said to Shecky Greene: "Listen, Shickey, Shakey, Shikey, or whatever your name is, can I have your autograph?" And Shecky Greene said, "Okay, leedy, lidey, loady, where will you have it?" There was no trouble about this contritemps. Shecky is big.

He looks like a winded line-man on a losing team. The hair is brown, the eyes are blue, the lips are slightly apart as though someone was on his instep. When he gets onstage he works harder, funnier and longer than any comedian I know. In Vegas, he has lasted since 1954, so long that, when he dies, the Riviera is going to build a statue of Shecky made of silver dollars. It will, of course, be electrified.

Stardom implies fame. Shecky Greene is a star and has the respect of the top pros, but the rest of the country says: "Shecky who?" He has cast his laughter within the parochial confines of Las Vegas, a town where the desert looks like broadloom and the cactus looks like people. Shecky's sexy satire of Madame Butterfly and her American lover ranks close to the comic classics.

His background is average: Shmoyale Greenfield was born on 15th Street in Chicago 41 years ago. His father was a wholesale shoe salesman. His mother, Bessie, sold hosiery and bags. His older brothers Paul and Marvin became salesmen. Shecky joined the Navy. He served aboard the carrier Bon Homme Richard in World War II.

In battle, his job was to man the soda fountain. "Everybody else was shooting Japs. I was below yelling: 'You want chocolate and sprinkles too?'" There was a U.S. Marine aboard named Jonathan Winters. He and Shecky put on shows between battles. Both men decided that they were natural comedians, or else the enlisted men were hysterical.

After the war, Greene worked everywhere. He bounced from Chicago to New Orleans to New York to Miami to Peewaukee Lake, Wisconsin. One time, he found himself in a gambling casino in Reno. He fell in love with the dealer. She was Jeri Drury, part Cherokee Indian. She had straight black hair and a high-noon look. "Before you marry an Indian girl," Shecky says, "you must give her father two fast horses. So I gave him Kelso in the seventh and carry Back in the eighth."

He told her how funny he was, but seldom laughed. They have two daughters: Doria, 7, and Allison, 5. After the wedding, Shecky bought his bride two French poodles. Whenever he came home from an engagement, he looked at the floor and demanded to know who the third plate was for.

His real love is gambling. When he started an engagement at the Last Frontier in Vegas, they held him over for 12 weeks because they couldn't afford to let him go. Shecky earns $14,000 a week, and a man has to be intelligent to find ways of losing all of it.

In recent years, he has put in about 20 weeks a year at the Riviera. It's a difficult assignment. Only the losers ask to see the show. A croupier spots a sick gambler and says, "Wanna see a funny kid?" The S.G. says: "Yeah, my bus doesn't leave for a half hour." "Oh, you leaving Vegas?" "No, I'm laying under it."

Shecky feels no kinship, no sympathy. He sweats twice as much to make them laugh. In the off-season, he will play anywhere near a race track. He says he prefers a sharp game of handball to horses, but nobody believes him. Schickey, Shakey, Shikey has got his gambling under control. Recently, at Gulfstream, he said: "I won't bet more than $500 a day."

That's real control. He was working the Fontainebleau with Sinatra. "I'm not in awe of him," he said. "I walk into his dressing room any old time. Usually he's not there, so I just kiss his rings and I'm not even Catholic."

When he drinks, Shecky drinks scotch. He never drinks too much unless he's nervous. When this happens, instead of biting his nails, he tears up mutual tickets. Then he drinks more than he should, put on a silly grin, unfocuses his eyes, unscrews his mind and draws a few blank. It doesn't happen often, but when it does, he awakens in a hotel room full of splinters. Millions of them. If they could be glued together, they would take the form of sofas, chairs, tables and television sets.

"I haven't got a temper," Shecky says. "I'm just stubborn." Both statements are untrue. His is a fine and lonely talent. No man can take the horses home with him. He phoned little Allison, just to hear a voice that might offer love and ask little in return.

"Where are you, Daddy?" she said. "I'm in Miami, honey," he whispered. He could hear the child speak to her mother. "He says he's in Miami." (Copyright, 1967, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington News

By BRUCE BOSSAT

Washington Correspondent

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. WASHINGTON (NEA) —

There has been nothing in political history like Richard M. Nixon's 1967 sweep through four continents.

While Michigan's Gov. George Romney is building his 1968 GOP presidential candidacy in Anchorage, Albuquerque, Salt Lake City, Louisville, Hartford and Atlanta, Nixon is building his in Bonn, Paris, Saigon, Bangkok, Santiago and Rio.

Off now on his five-nation Latin-American swing, he will return May 16, only to embark June 4 on a 10-country African trip that will carry him to June 24.

By that date, he will have visited 33 countries and every continent except Australia and Antarctica, and will have traveled 80,085 miles in 1967.

The obvious thing to say about these travels, of course, is that Nixon—in a time of world troubles—is trying even more forcefully than he did in 1960 against John F. Kennedy to crush his presidential rivals under the weight of his "foreign affairs experience."

That is not the entire story. His unprecedented wanderings through nearly one-third of the world's countries are enabling him to strike the activist posture without playing the open political game at home too soon.

Romney can roam the domestic circuit as pretty much the fresh face. Nixon has been the route many times. There is danger in making the rounds too soon again. Furthermore, Nixon's protracted absences from the United States give him an easy detachment from the busy groundwork being done on his behalf by his various carefully chosen lieutenants, including Dr. Gaylor Parkinson, still operating from San Diego while Nixon headquarters here are remodeled, and Robert Ellsworth, former GOP congressman from Kansas.

Friends argue that as late as this coming September, after Nixon has "rested" by writing some magazine pieces and perhaps a book to help defray the cost of his travels, he might still pull out of the 1968 race. Heavily adverse polls might dissuade him.

But they do not expect

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

May 11, 1947—Frederick W. Goudy, 82, noted type designer, died at his Marlboro home.

Sarah M. TenEyck Newkirk, widow of William S. Newkirk, died at her Downs Street home.

Miss Iona Kinkade, MJM School teacher, won a General Electric Fellowship at Union College.

John H. Dittus Jr., of The Freeman, was elected president of Kingston Typographical Union.

May 11, 1957—A program dedicated to the Kingston Rhinecliff Bridge featured Governor Averell Harriman.

such a decision. They believe—and Nixon's most recent public utterance tends to confirm—that he is really committed to going hard.

His probable presidential primary list, friends say, includes Oregon, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Indiana, New Hampshire and Illinois. The winner takes the delegates in all but Illinois, where the value of a triumph would be mostly psychological.

Massachusetts may be added if official state legal opinion should finally determine that its new primary law conforms closely to the Oregon "all-candidate" pattern and will not allow easy withdrawals in deference to a possible favorite son, Gov. John Volpe.

Nixon's agents are already busy scouting New Hampshire and other likely states. The Parkinson operation grows steadily while Nixon works foreign precincts.

Nixon's claim as the big foreign affairs man will not go wholly unchallenged. Already, some critics have charged that his 1967 adventures represent a kind of superficial flitting about that could hardly produce much deep knowledge of world problems.

His defenders insist, however, that Nixon's background in this field is fundamentally so deep that he can get far more out of a two-day visit to a country than most men could. He plans his interview schedule carefully, lets quick note between talks, then sits down at night to scribble 10 or more long pages of his day's gleanings.

The 1968 primaries will tell how all this pays off. But there is no question it is a shrewd gambit for a candidate eager to prevent a "tired face" from looking more tired.

Sees Russia Bluffing U.S. To Force Pullout in Viet

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Russia is trying to frighten or bluff the United States into a surrender in Vietnam.

For several days now the Soviets have permitted news to leak out of Moscow that they are planning to give substantial military aid to the North Vietnamese. It seems strange that information of this kind would be made public, as military plans are usually not disclosed in advance. Apparently the first dispatches did not produce any tangible result, as America took only casual notice of what had been said. But now the Soviet government has put even more emphasis on its plan to provide unlimited aid to North Vietnam. A United Press International dispatch from London on Tuesday reads as follows:

"London—High Communist diplomats said today the Kremlin had decided upon a program of massive military aid to North Vietnam 'to forestall an American success.'"

"The diplomats said the decision followed a recent reappraisal of Soviet Vietnam policy in the light of what they termed 'growing indications of threatening American escalation of the war.'"

"We just cannot stand by and watch the destruction and attempted submission of the country," the Communists said.

"The diplomats would not specify what Russia will send under the stepped-up aid plan. They said Hanoi would determine its own needs. It appeared from their comments that Russia would send heavy and sophisticated equipment, including aircraft and a variety of rockets. "The diplomats said the equipment would reach North Vietnam by a variety of routes and that they were confident it would get to its destination despite obstruction by Communist China."

"The diplomats said that in the light of the mushrooming Vietnam conflict, chances of an East-West accord must be considered extremely slender. "They said the Kremlin did not want to freeze East-West contacts altogether, but to expect any major agreements with the United States while the war rages in Vietnam would be unrealistic."

"The diplomats say, in effect, 'look out, America—we'll be unfriendly if you don't surrender soon.' What is surprising is that these same Communist spokesmen express concern lest China interfere with the shipments to North Vietnam. Surely the Peiping Regime would hardly wish to block the transport of war supplies and weapons that are critically needed by its ally in Hanoi."

Coincidentally, inside the United States, the political parties are being urged to recognize that the only beneficiary of a divided foreign policy would be the Communists. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel, of California, assistant Republican leader of the Senate, has issued a warning to his party not to engage in "Specious Political Flummery" over Vietnam so as to gain political advantage. He said Republicans cannot "give aid and comfort to the enemy by speaking with two voices to take advantage of divisions in our country between 'Hawks' and 'Doves.'" Senator Everett Dirksen, Republican leader, concurred in this view.

Governor George Romney, Republican of Michigan, in answering questions on the Vietnam War at a news conference on Tuesday, said he thinks that the South Vietnamese government should be encouraged to negotiate with the Viet Cong in the south so as to split them away from the North Vietnamese Communists.

The question of Viet Cong participation, however, in any peace conference is a delicate one. Several senators in both parties have indicated they would like to see the Viet Cong sit at the peace table. But the President and the Secretary of State have been very cautious about drawing South Vietnam into any deal with the Viet Cong Communists, preferring to leave any contacts between these two groups to the South Vietnamese themselves. It is apparent that the American position in the Vietnam War is growing stronger each day and that the military operation there is becoming more and more a demonstration of America's power. The Moscow and Peiping regimes are not too happy about the fact that they must render an unprecedented amount of military aid if they wish to save North Vietnam from defeat. So it's natural for the Russians to try to scare the United States into a cease-fire and prolonged negotiation. (Copyright, 1967, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate)

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

C.I.A. as assistant to Allen Dulles, says he "went to Detroit one morning and gave Walter $50,000 in fifty dollar bills." The money, says Mr. Braden, was subsequently laded out by Victor Reuther in West Germany to bolster labor unions there. Mr. Braden says that Victor spent the money "with less than perfect wisdom, for the German unions he chose to help weren't seriously short of money and were already anti-Communist."

Walter Reuther remembers taking the money. Well, if the Reuther brothers are so ashamed of it now, why not return it to the U.S. Treasury? It wouldn't cost the United Automobile Workers very much. If the UAW should object to an assessment to cover a refund the Reuthers could take up a collection—or, if their past behavior really burns them, they might even take it out of their own salaries.

I don't know what to say about the money from the C.I.A. that went to finance the Congress for Cultural Freedom, which, in turn, passed some funds along to the London-based magazine Encounter. The editors and associates of Encounter seem only to have heard "rumors" that the C.I.A. was helping them out. Moreover, some of the Encounter editors and writers deny having profited by their constructions to the magazine. Still, if Stephen Spender and Irving Kristol heard about "rumors" of C.I.A. support when they were on the Encounter masthead, shouldn't they have done something to run the rumors down at the time? And now that it seems clear from Mr. Braden's report that the C.I.A. was involved in financing Encounter, shouldn't the ex-editors of that magazine try to clear the good name of their journalistic alma mater by starting a conscience fund to pay the money back?

Finally, there is something the National Student Association could do right now to clear what remains of its good name with those who think it was terrible to help their country out when it was engaged in mortal conflict with the Communists at the height of the Cold War. The NSA, according to David Franke, editor of the Young Americans for Freedom magazine New Guard, has been using some Washington property rent-free. The C.I.A. has, says Mr. Franke, been paying the rent through one of those "conduit" foundations. Even the chairs which the NSA officers sit on were C.I.A. financed. How can they bear to rest their affronted posteriors on those chairs? If they are really as all-fired moral and ethical as they say they are, I look to see them substitute packing cases for their tainted office furniture.

There is an old saying that you should put your money where your mouth is. But our ethical young seem to be all mouth. If and when they give a nickel back to the federal treasury, that'll be the day. I'd be glad to accept some of the money personally for transmission to Washington.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

Miss Mary Campbell showed me an interesting book, leather covered, with glossy stiff paper all hand tied. It was called Just for Fun. It is a collection of pen and ink caricatures of prominent men of Kingston and Saugerties. The portraits are very well done. Each page is given over to one man and his business and social and political interests in pictures. No doubt many of these were printed for each subscriber in the book. John J. Campbell, father of Mary Campbell is at the beginning of the book. J. J. Campbell was of the well known Campbell and Demsey firm of mason and general contractors. One of the buildings built by them was the Poughkeepsie Court House. They were not only known locally but up and down the Hudson River as builders.

The following men all had pages: Dr. George Chandler, Ralph Clearwater, Isaac N. Weiner, wines and liquor; Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck; Dr. A. L. Hill, W. G. Johnston, avining business, Jay E. Klock of The Freeman, John E. Kraft of The Leader, J. Maynard Morgan of the Kingston Argus, T. D. Lewis, the photographer, E. Metzger, attorney, Frank B. Matthews of the State of New York National Bank, Dr. H. F. Meinhardt, dentist, Davton Murray at the time, city clerk, F. A. Palen, woodworking plant, C. Gordon Reed is represented with trolley cars, J. H. Roosa, a painter, Attorney Arthur E.

Rose, Dr. C. O. Sahler of Sahler's Sanitarium, S. R. Shear, superintendent of schools, Judge Frederick Stephen, David Terry, A. W. Thompson of the Rondout National Bank, William J. Turck in the lumber business, Judge Van Etten, Charles W. Walton, Aaron Cohen, attorney D. G. Atkins, attorney William D. Brinnier.

No doubt, the artist canvassed all the prominent men and thus sketched in their background in pictures, and made a portrait in pen and ink and each man no doubt paid for appearing in the book and later receiving a copy. Martin Cantine of the Saugerties paper mills is there. David Burgevin, florist, Henry C. Connelly Jr., pharmacist, Senator John N. Cordts, Walter F. Crane, S. R. Devo, of the cider mill, Charles V. A. Decker of the Hudson River Day Line, Phillip Elting, Everett Fowler, Attorney Joseph M. Fowler, Gregory and Barnes, showing John H. Gregory. There is no date given in the book, nor could I find the name of the artist. But I take it, sometime in the early 1900's this book came out.

I noticed in the Barnett Antique Shon on North Front Street is a timetable of the Eddyville Yacht which used to come to Rondout, Sunday afternoon, April 30, 1967, many people visited the Rondout section in cars to see the progress of urban renewal demolition. Friday two scoons or bulldozers with continuous train-sized trucks were hauling away the debris at the corner of Broadway and Meadow Street. I notice the men sweep up the sidewalk after their work. Now with the warm weather, no doubt the work will continue even faster, and those wishing to take a walk can watch the destruction of Rondout at their leisure. No doubt much will be accomplished during the month of May. Will Rondout become the next business section of Kingston? With the city hall coming here, it may encourage others. I notice that offices over stores, are simply not rentable in central and upper parts of Kingston. We are not a city of offices, like a big metropolitan city. I would like to see a good factory downtown, like we had in the Stock and Cordts building, and other buildings in Rondout, so people could walk to work.

TIMELY QUOTES

Ticonderoga Threatened

Four Watchdogs Now Guard Upstate Fort From Vandals

TICONDEROGA, N.Y. (AP)—Fort Ticonderoga, once defended by the British, French and Americans, is now in the paws of four dogs.

There hasn't been an attack yet.

In fact, some people think the 212-year-old fort might not have changed hands so many times if the dogs — three German Shepherds and a Husky — had been there sooner.

Other Attack

The historic fort, set on a high hill overlooking the southern tip of Lake Champlain and northern end of Lake George, a mile from this Adirondack community, no longer faces the challenge of the British Black Watch Regiment, nor is there the threat of Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain Boys, who 192 years ago this week, captured the fort from the British in the first American action of the Revolutionary War.

Its problem now is a different kind of attack—by thieves who have ransacked the countless treasures behind the well-kept stone walls.

"Five years ago the breaks started," Mrs. Jane Lipe, public relations director of the fort, told a reporter.

"In just six weeks we lost over $10,000 in muskets, guns and other items. They still haven't been recovered."

It was then that Mrs. Lipe and Edward P. Hamilton, director of the fort, decided security measures had to be tightened.

Slept-in

"We had a caretaker who slept in the fort," she said, "but he couldn't possibly hear everything that went on."

"We thought of electronic devices, but there was no way to hook them up."

Mrs. Lipe, who once owned

"the best watchdog anywhere," thought of the dogs.

Two, Wendy and Rebel, came from a training school in Massachusetts, Pete and Hotoe, the Husky, came from local animal shelters and learned their trade from the others.

Wendy, the only girl, is the most effective, although Mrs. Lipe hastens to add: "It's not fair to say she's the meanest just because she's female."

The dogs, turned loose at night, roam throughout the fort's tunnels and walls and bark at the slightest noises.

Outside, tacked onto the heavy wooden gate, is a sign: "This property is protected by German Shepherd guard dogs." The sign is covered in the daytime.

What results have the dogs produced in the two years they have been on duty?

"It's hard to tell," says Hamilton. "If nothing happens you can't say that it might have."

One Incident

There was one incident just after the dogs came.

"It was an attempted break," says Mrs. Lipe. "The barking of the dogs woke up the caretaker. He found somebody at the gate who said he had lost his way."

"Later we found the souvenir shop outside the walls had been entered and some guns had been stolen."

During the day, the dogs are taken away from the fort so they won't become too familiar with the visitors. In the winter, they are kept within the gates in insulated dog houses.

The four, especially Wendy, are selective in making friends.

"There are four of us who may handle them," says Hamilton. "But their favorite is the caretaker's little daughter. She can crawl into their dog house anytime."

"But," Mrs. Lipe says, "I'd hate to think of what would happen if they ever got hold of a stranger. One time they wouldn't let my husband leave the fort. And when we first brought Wendy here, she had never seen a child before. She didn't know what they were."

The dogs down about 50 pounds of food a week—plus an enormous number of dog biscuits.

"It's bribery, pure and simple," she says. "And they know it."

"But we are very happy with our choice. The police and the insurance company are too. Most people don't even realize the dogs are here, which is actually good."

Except for the thieves.

Inspection Is Due on '64 Models

ALBANY—This is the month when owners of 1964 model motor vehicles who renewed their registrations last October are scheduled to have the cars checked under the state's periodic inspection law.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent L. Tofany said today that "These are the vehicles whose registrations could be renewed without having the inspection beforehand, but with the provision that it must be done before June 1."

"Of course," he added, "if the inspection has been performed between then and now, it need not be repeated. The due date for the next inspection is indicated on the sticker which was attached to the windshield when the last one was performed."

Those 1964 model owners who have not had the inspection should do so as early this month as possible, the Commissioner warned, otherwise they might run into delays past the deadline. He urged them to make an appointment at their inspection station for the station might not be able to inspect their cars right away.

The penalty for not having the inspection done on time is suspension of the registration and plates.

Rundown Senators

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — It was sunny outdoors and the North Carolina House of Representatives passed a resolution challenging state senators to a softball game the night of May 24.

The House resolution claimed the senators "were out of condition."

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

We used to be in the laundry business and here is a little hint I would like to pass along to women who cannot get the soiled line out of their husband's shirt collars.

We removed these by rubbing a little ammonia on the collars before putting them in the washing machine. We particularly like the sudsy kind. We did not find that it hurt the material or caused fading.

A Fan

It also helps prevent this line on shirt collars if men will pour some rubbing alcohol on a wash cloth and rub their neck with it every so often. (Your own neck not the shirt's!)

Heloise

A thin ring of nail polish painted on the plastic end of the "up" cord on venetian blinds ends annoyance.

It's so easy to distinguish the right cord to raise the blind without having to pull both of them. Sure has helped my disposition.

V.L.M.

You requested hints about twins.

This is such a marvelous idea that we are sorry we didn't think of it for our two older children.

Instead of hiring someone to come in during the day, we have a woman come in at night to take care of our babies.

That way we can get a good night's sleep and can then manage just fine during the day.

Lyn Hutson

Lyn, you are the smartest . . . But not many new parents had thought of this. Bless you and your little ones!

Heloise

No place to put your plastic place mats?

I hang mine on the kitchen wall.

Just cut a small hole with a razor blade, or punch one with a paper punch in each mat.

Surround the hole on both sides with notebook reinforcements, using an all-purpose glue.

Not only does it save drawer space or get them off the table but they look attractive hanging on my kitchen wall.

Marge Ritenhouse

As a Navy wife I receive quite a bit of mail from my husband. Often several letters at one time that have the same post mark date.

We have found a way to let each other know which one was written first.

We simply add the date the letter was written (not mailed) on the flap of our envelopes. This way when two or more letters come at one time, we can tell which one was written first without having to open them all.

Helen Murr

Dear Heloise:

Here's a tip for weight-watchers who like hot chocolate as much as I do.

I make my hot chocolate with two teaspoons of instant cream instead of whole milk for a creamier flavor.

This new instant cream has less calories than whole milk and my hot chocolate tastes rich-as-can-be.

Mrs. Marilyn Mader

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

Every time I have to shorten those long sleeves and long trousers for my short husband and son, I wonder "Why didn't I marry a tall man?"

Now I know the answer. It takes too long to iron long sleeves and long-legged trousers.

Jean Doehring

Dear Heloise:

Do you know what I do with my old, slightly discolored teapot?

I use it for a cute string holder by putting the ball in the pot and passing the string through the spout.

I leave it in the kitchen so it will not only be useful but decorative, too.

Mrs. Claire Lemieux

Soviet Moon Plan

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union may try to put its first man on the moon by shooting him into a moon orbit in a 15-ton spacecraft which would break orbit and land on the lunar surface, a Soviet space authority indicates.

Fifteen-ton spacecraft already have been tested, said Lt. Gen. Nikolai P. Kamanin. He apparently referred to the Sovuz 1 believed the heaviest Soviet space vehicle so far. Sovuz 1 crashed last month, killing pilot Vladimir M. Komarov, but the Soviets said unmanned Sovuz craft were successfully tested before Komarov's flight.

Writing in the bimonthly journal Earth and the Universe, Kamanin said a direct flight from the earth to the moon would require a far heavier spacecraft and more powerful rockets than any yet developed.

Coined Term

John Smith, best known of the early settlers of Virginia, coined the term "New England" after the voyage of exploration along the coast of that territory in 1614, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Driver's Widow in State of Collapse

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Mrs. Lorenzo Bandini collapsed momentarily over the coffin of her husband today as she attended a Mass at the Princess Grace Hospital chapel.

Mrs. Bandini, who is expecting a child, went from her room in the hospital to the chapel for the Mass, said by the Rev. Pietro Raggi.

At the end of the service, she went to the casket and embraced it, sobbing. Despite offers of aid, she raised herself up and walked from the chapel unaided.

Business Mirror ReflectionsGentle Treatment Aids Middle Executive Fervor

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Obviously he wasn't doing well. His attitude and achievement were definitely beneath his capabilities, as shown on tests. He was an underachiever and needed to be placed in a special class.

With children? No, with other executives.

On-Job Training
In this class he would be taught better executive practices.

He would be given on-the-job supervision. He would be forced or induced to achieve, perhaps by being given more responsibility, or maybe less.

This gentle treatment of middle executives is still rare, but more common now than it was when jobs were few and candidates numerous. But with business expanding, spreading abroad, diversifying, underachievers are looked upon as rough diamonds to be polished. Far more often than in previous years the boss rather than the underachiever is blamed. Frequently the underachiever is viewed as capable but misunderstood, a potential producer in an uninspiring environment.

In fact, if there is a shortage of able middle executives—and some claim there always is such a shortage—top management is more frequently in the mood now to accept blame for having failed to train candidates properly.

Also Rewarding
Naturally this treatment is under as much criticism as approval. It is coddling, certainly, but some companies consider it not just necessary but also rewarding to both the individual and the company.

As a result, numerous corporations have set up formal training programs to assist those who fail to pick up the tools of the trade simply by working and observing.

These companies feel today's business environment, in which electronic computers change century-old management methods within a year, demands formal training.

Reflecting this, thousands of businessmen this summer will spend from a few days to more than a month on college campuses they left 20 years before, attending special courses at company expense.

Has Other Facets

This attitude has other facets also: schools at resorts during which management games are played before swimming or after golf; a growing tendency toward sabbaticals; instant success courses—salesmanship, speed reading, dress and behavior—paid for by corporations. No longer is the route to the top guided by the homely old maxims, such as keep your ears

FACES CHARACTERS—Confessed Boston Strangler, Albert H. De Salvo (c), is led into Superior Court yesterday to face charges of escaping from Bridgewater State Hospital last February along with George Harrison and Fred A. Erickson. P. O. Summer Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department says that beginning Saturday, it will hire 21,324 summer employees, including 3,500 in the New York State region.

The department announced Wednesday that those appointed will work 20 to 30 hours a week and will be paid $2.44 an hour. A spokesman for the department said that the majority would be of college age, who will return to classes next fall.

The New York State region includes the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico.

and eyes open, your nose clean and to the grandstone. These "in-factory" methods are often considered obsolete now. More often the training is outside the firm.

Meat Prices Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Meat prices jumped this week. It may be a long summer before consumers see price tags as low as those last winter.

Prices on the live cattle and hog markets the past two weeks have soared. Midwestern farmers, busy with spring chores, have been shipping smaller supplies to market.

A New York supermarket chain raised pork chop prices 10 cents a pound this week. Pork cuts are generally 2 cents a pound higher on the West Coast.

Beef prices are up 1 to 3 cents a pound along the West Coast. Rib roasts may be on special in the Midwest.

Chicken prices are down 14 cents a pound in the New York area. Broilers, fryers and turkeys may be featured in the Northeast, Midwest and South-west.

Egg prices are up 1 cent a dozen in San Francisco and Portland, Ore., this week, and medium-sized eggs are 2 cents higher at a major chain in the New York area. But prices still are low, and eggs are being promoted heavily at many stores.

Some canners have raised the price of orange juice, in the

Noted Newspaperwoman To Write for The Freeman

Doris Fleson, famous Washington correspondent and one of the country's best-known newspaperwomen, becomes a regular contributor to The Kingston Daily Freeman on Monday, May 15, when her three-times-a-week column from the nation's capital starts appearing in these pages. With more than 30 years experience in reporting and analyzing the Washington political scene, Miss Fleson has long been rated the top "news-hen" there, and her daily articles are so clear, concise, and so packed with facts that other correspondents have called her "the columnist's columnist."

She does not call herself a columnist. As she sees it, she is a reporter with the somewhat specialized job of writing a factual, understandable and "interpretive" news story about each day's most important developments on the national and international level — "news stories," she puts it, "in which today's events are related to yesterday's events to show their meaning for tomorrow."

As readers of The Freeman will quickly discover, Doris Fleson is an expert in getting the "inside" story. The number, the scope and the reliability of her "personal pipe-lines" to Congressional and Administration news sources has amazed and sometimes annoyed official Washington for years. Time Magazine, in ranking her high on the small list of Washington writers it described as "the core of the press corps," said of her, "She attends no off-record conferences, yet she frequently knows what the Administration is up to before many of its brass hats."

Born in Sterling, Kansas, Miss Fleson came East to get a job on a newspaper immediately after graduating from the University of Kansas. After a few months apprenticeship on a small Long Island daily, she applied for—and got—a job on the New York Daily News. "There," she says, "we learned to hit 'em in the eye."

She became Washington correspondent for the Daily News, and in 1930 married John O'Donnell, Washington columnist for the same paper. The marriage ended in 1940, when Miss Fleson obtained a divorce.

In 1959, she married Dan A. Kimball, former Secretary of the Navy under President Truman and now president of Aero-Jet-General Corp. Miss Fleson served overseas as a war correspondent during World War II, and upon returning to the capital in 1945, became Washington correspondent for a number of papers throughout the United States. In 1954 she began her column for United Feature Syndicate, Inc., and today her column is a leading feature in more than 100 of the country's foremost papers.

Her newspaper colleagues know her as a tireless worker, indefatigable in her pursuit of the facts that underlie the surface story. Yet she gets so much fun out of her job that non-newspaper friends who see her gadding about the capital often ask, "When do you work?" The answer is, simply: all the time.

Call her a reporter or call her a columnist, her articles will bring The Freeman readers fresh insight into the complex problems that constitute national and international politics, and a clearer understanding of the personalities and pressures that influence their outcome.

"Are teen-age designers' ideas becoming stultified by the inbreeding which results from their feeding upon one another rather than upon the wider experiences offered by adaptation of older and foreign designers," he asks.

ple nose-thumbing at convention," he says. Twigg, 17, veteran of one year in the London fashion business, is earning as much as $225 an hour. She and Kathy McGowan, 24, a veteran of more than three years in show business and clothes-making, are cresting a high wave of popularity and financial success. Some others who once rode high are showing signs of distress in the choppy seas of mod fashion.

Look Much Alike
Several recent fashion shows by adolescent creators of London fashion looked very much like one another, and for originality, only harked back to the past.

"We've had teen-age Edwardian looks, teenage Regency looks, teen-age 20 looks, teenage 30 looks," says Taylor. "The inspiration seems to have come from a simple looking through of old prints and old fashion plates."

Among all of the youthful designers, one seems destined to keep going for a long time. She is Mary Quant, a truly original style thinker. Her clothes, while ultramod, are practical and pretty.

Swinging London began gyrating on Carnaby Street, but the center of its gravity appears to have shifted to the old King's Road in once Bohemian Chelsea.

Dozens of boutiques, which have mushroomed from the elegance of Sloane Square at one end of King's Road to the tatter environs of Fulham, are doing a tremendous cash business. Real estate along the road has skyrocketed.

Purchase Truck; Plan New Park

A special meeting of the Town Board of Wawarsing was held at the Town Clerk's Office in Ellenville to discuss the purchase of land for a town park site last Friday.

A 190-acre parcel of land owned by Floyd VanGorder, located in Ulster Heights in the Cape Pond area, was discussed.

Jerry Jensen, from the State Conservation Department, discussed the proposed plan.

A 30-acre man-made lake is also being considered on the property.

The bid of $28,599 to purchase a 4-wheel drive heavy duty truck for snow plowing was awarded to Elliott Truck and Tractor of Woodridge.

Councilman Frank Muller made the motion and it was seconded by Councilman Clarence Wright of Napanoch.

Attending the special meeting was Kenneth Mitchell, town clerk, and the four Councilmen, Frank Greco, Muller, Delois Craft, and Wright.

Also present was Town Engineer, Aaron Horowitz, and Joseph Freedman, town attorney.

List Candidates: County Legislature

Three candidates were selected to run on the Democratic ticket in the fall election for county legislatures, Monday night at the Ellenville Town Hall Building.

Supervisor George Barthel, Frank Sahler, and Conrad Eck were those chosen from the Town of Wawarsing.

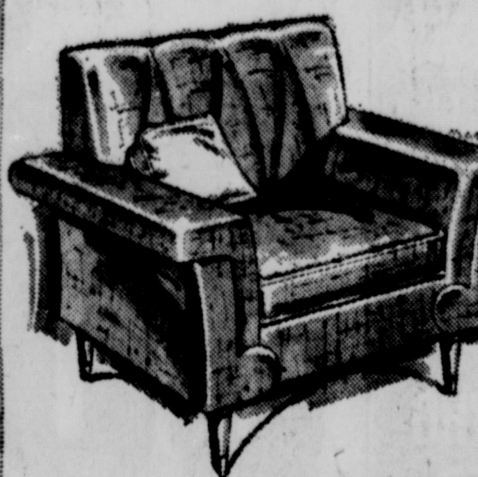

Sahler is a school teacher at the Woodbourne Correctional Institution and a past school board member who lost the May 3 election by only twelve votes.

Eck is employed by the Ellenville National Bank.

Rocky Pressing for Voter Approval of Transit Bond

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller is cranking up an all-out campaign to win voter approval of his $2.5-billion transit bond issue — an effort that some observers see as evidence of latent White House ambitions.

The Republican governor poured on the coal Monday during a meeting of his cabinet. All department and agency heads were summoned to his office for a lecture on the importance of his transit program.

Called Salesmen

"You are my salesmen," he told the cabinet officers.

Rockefeller instructed each to concentrate on gaining a favorable vote for his transit plan in next November's election. He made clear that the effort must have top priority.

Cabinet members were urged to stress the importance of the transit plan in public speaking appearances and to accept as many speaking engagements as they could. They were told to work the bond issue into departmental publications and press releases, whenever possible.

A few hours later, at a news conference, Rockefeller told the Capitol press corps:

"Passage of the bond issue for transportation, in my opinion, is the single most important thing we face at the present time. . . This I consider the most important responsibility I have."

Earlier, in his exchange with the newsmen, Rockefeller denied again that he still entertained ambitions for the presidency. In recent weeks, he has sought to create the impression that he is running hard to avoid ensnarement in the White House free-for-all.

Cite Magnitude

At the same time, persons close to Rockefeller have taken pains to point up the magnitude of his transit program and his earlier $1-billion effort to combat water-pollution — two programs that clearly outstrip the efforts of the federal government in these fields.

Admirers of the governor have cited the transit and water programs as examples of the kind of leadership that—in their view — qualify Rockefeller to shoulder the burdens of the presidency.

New York voters endorsed the water program by an overwhelming margin in 1965, to Rockefeller's manifest delight. He is gunning now for similar approval of the transit plan.

Regardless of his denials of interest in the presidency, Rockefeller is aware that a transit victory at the polls next November would be a major feather in his cap. It would enhance his image as the kind of government executive who paints on a big canvass with a broad brush.

Wants It First

In an effort to advance prospects for passage of the transit bond issue, Rockefeller has arranged for the proposal to be listed first among questions that will appear on next November's state ballot — ahead of the product of the State Constitutional Convention.

This was brought out after the news conference, when a Rockefeller aide noted — that the secretary of state — an appointee of the governor — determines the order of questions on the ballot.

A Reporter suggested piously to the governor that he "might be able to persuade" Secretary John P. Lomenzo to comply with his wishes.

"You could make that past tense," Rockefeller replied with a twinkling smile.

Grand Union Plans Spa County Store

The Grand Union Company announced today that it has signed a lease for the construction of a supermarket in Clifton Park.

Scheduled to open in early 1968, the 18,000 square-foot store in the Saratoga County community will be at the intersection of Route 146 and Visher Ferry Road in a shopping center with parking for 286 cars.

Grand Union is currently operating 544 supermarkets and Grand Way department stores in 11 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

Butte, Mont., was once known as the "richest hill on earth," according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Nurses May Strike

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A majority of Onondaga County's 41 public health nurses say they will resign because of what they term the county health department's failure to pay higher salaries and resolve "other inequities."

Miss Sylvia Horstman, chairman of the Public Health Nursing Unit in the county, told The Associated Press Wednesday night that the planned resignation would take effect 30 days from Friday.

Miss Horstman said the county health department had failed to meet the nurses' demands for higher salaries. She did not elaborate.

Police Find Baby

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)— "Please take care of me," were the words in a note that police say was pinned to the clothing of a one-week-old boy found abandoned in a supermarket shopping cart.

The note also contained instructions for the infant's formula, his date of birth, a statement that the mother was unable to care of him and the words: "My name is Scott Gordon."

The baby, found Wednesday night in the store, was taken to Memorial Hospital here. Authorities said he was uninjured.

Police searched for a woman, who, a store cashier said, entered the market with the baby and then left.

The markings on the infant's clothing indicated he was from Canada, police said.

Alaska was Russian territory for a period of 83 years, from 1784 to 1867.

Report Buffalo Power Blackout

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Power was restored Wednesday night to the last of 11,212 electric users, affected earlier in the day when a construction crew, using a pile-driver, inadvertently severed underground cables in the downtown area.

The customers, including industries and major downtown businesses, were without electricity for periods ranging from 39 minutes to 11 hours.

The Niagara Mohawk Corp., which owns the lines, said service was resumed for 11,000 customers within 1½ hours. The remainder received power by 8:47 p.m.

Among the affected customers was the Buffalo Evening News, which was forced to delay printing several of its editions.

The pile-driver was being used to sink steel shafts for the construction of a new loop for the Niagara section of the Thruway.

A project engineer for the State Public Works Department said that plans indicate the power cables, which carried 100,000 volts, ran under the middle of a street, instead of along the edge of the street where the piles were being driven.

Both parents of Will Rogers, noted humorist, had some Cherokee Indian blood.

Girl Talk Stays Mystery to Men

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Science has made considerable progress lately in learning the languages of such birds as the crow and such beasts as the dolphin. What it should set out to decipher next is the language of women. That would really do civilization a favor.

However, it is unlikely that science will ever accomplish this feat. Women don't want anyone to solve their language. It is the real secret of the legendary mystery of their sex.

There is a fundamental and inescapable difference in the employment of language by man and woman.

A man uses language to say what's on his mind. To a woman, this is incredibly naive. She uses language to say what isn't on her mind.

Except when she loses her temper and thereby reveals herself inadvertently, a woman opens her mouth only to plead the 5th Amendment. Her conversation is a camouflage to protect herself and her motives.

Nothing about his wife puzzles a new husband more than her enigmatic use of language. The marriage really begins to succeed only when he begins dimly to perceive that she rarely says what she means and rarely means what she says.

Once that happens he can usually manage to get along with her very well.

He knows that when she asks him if he feels chilly she really means, "Go close the window. Dopey. I'm cold."

He knows that when she asks him if he would like more meat?" what she really means is, "Pass the platter, Buster: can't you see I'm starving?"

He knows that when she says, "It's so nice out, shall we walk?" what she really means is, "My feet have been hurting for hours—so go call a taxi, Big Stupid."

Even a veteran husband, no matter how accustomed he gets to a wife's upside down use of language, can't quite adjust himself to her use of the words "never" and "always."

For example, if he hasn't taken her out for a week, she tells him, "You never take me out anymore." If he forgets an anniversary once, she tells him forever after, "You never remember our anniversary."

A situation that befell a friend of mine may serve to illustrate the wily use of the word "always."

In 1935, as he was turning at an intersection, another car brushed against his and dented his fender.

"For 32 years since then," he told me mournfully, "every time we have approached that intersection, my wife has grabbed me by the sleeve and said, 'Be careful. Remember, you always have an accident here.'"

There are some more things I could tell you about how wives use language. But why bother?

In this field every husband has to learn how to interpret his own babbling brook.

Organ Concert Elicits Praise

The Saugerties Organ Fund Committee proudly presented Dick Smith in a Pop Organ Recital last Monday evening in Saugerties High School auditorium and, according to one member of the audience who heard him play, "It would be very hard to describe in words the effects produced on this classical instrument by the talented Smith."

More than 200 people attended the concert during which Smith performed on the Rodgers 32B organ, the versatility of which has been augmented by special accessories. Most of those present expressed awe at the powers of the fine organ, which occupies center stage, and at the skill and artistry of Smith.

Said one: "Smith rippled his fingers across the keys and flashed his shiny shoes across the pedal. Not only did the audience hear those piping high notes, but it felt the deep vibrations of those sonorous low notes."

His repertoire seemed unlimited as he ran the gamut of songs, such as "Tues from the Sound of Music," "Desire," "Song, Begin the Beguine," "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue," "Tea For Two" and, to the delight of the teenagers, "Spanish Flea," "Zorba the Greek" and "Yesterday."

Throwing the versatile instrument into classic mode, he came up with such delights as "The Old Rugged Cross," "The Naval Hymn" and "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." A very responsive and appreciative audience even chimed in and sang along with some of the hymns.

Smith's unpretentious manner won over the audience and the applause drew two encores: "Tea For Two" and "Good Night, Sweetheart." The organ fund committee expects to have him back again and hopes that those who heard him will spread the word. Proceeds of the show will be used to help pay for this truly fine instrument.

1st Congregational

Children's Day will be observed June 11 with a number of children taking part in the morning service. On June 25, hopes hinge on a good, clear day, for the closing of church school for the summer with the out-of-door service and annual picnic at the 3R's Grove in Mt. Marion. The entire congregation and church school will attend.

June 18 service will include the baptism of Penny Sue Mower. May 21, Founders Day will be marked by receiving new friends into the fellowship and sharing in the Lord's supper. May 28 marks the observance of Memorial Day. Women's Fellowship will meet today at the home of Mrs. Charles McGinnis, 49 Howland Avenue, Kingston. All members of the fellowship are urged to attend.

May 18, 19 and 20 will mark the big rummage sale in the church school rooms. Support is needed for this work and hopes are high for a fine sale and a good earning for the work of the church.

May 15 is the date set by Saugerties Area Council of Churches for the annual meeting at Flatbush Church. The supper will be at 6 p. m. and reservations must be made with the Rev. Imhoff by May 12. Father O. Blanchet will speak on the new cooperation and work among the Christian churches.

Company Dinner Roaring Success

Members of the Centerville Fire Company were still walking on air this week, following a highly successful public function at the local fire station recently. Firemen and members of the auxiliary expressed thanks today to the many people who attended the roast beef dinner held in late April; noted that a capacity crowd had accepted the offer to attend and "eat all you can."

Proceeds from the highly successful dinner exceeded all expectations and will be utilized toward the building of a new addition to the firehouse. This, firemen say, will shortly help them to provide even better protection for all local residents.

Among individuals who worked in the planning, preparing and serving of the well attended dinner were:

Louise Sperl, Mary Patryk, Katherine Keller, Ethel Jehle, Alice C. Myers, Katherine B. Snyder, Anna E. Snyder, Marjorie Paige, Margaret Crawford, Nancy Mower, Barbara Brennan, Lillie Pearson, Linda Pederson, Kay Crawford and Della Myer.

Others were: Eva Luhrs, Una Freligh, Hilda Houtman, Matilda Alexander, Emile Staudgl, John Paige, Charles Sherwood, Woodrow Sperl, Barry Craft, Warren Benz, William Sperl, Carlton Sperl, Tom Brennan Jr., Donald H. Crawford, David P. Simmons, Atwater Valk and Eugene Patryk.

Hearts and Cards

A program on heart will be presented to the regular session of Malden-West Camp Fire Company Auxiliary Tuesday 7 p. m. at West Camp fire station.

Dr. Jacob Moss of Kings Village, Saugerties, will be the guest speaker.

Card Party

Malden - West Camp Fire Company Auxiliary will hold a card party Saturday, May 20 at 8 p. m. in West Camp fire station. The games will be for adults only.

Cancel Meeting

Local 445, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America, has canceled its meeting scheduled May 12 at Newburgh due to the unavailability of the Iron Workers Hall on that evening. The next regular meeting of the local will be held Friday, Sept. 8.

WACs Observe Anniversary

May 14, this year, marks two everyone—Mother's Day; the celebrations honoring America's second—not as wellknown—is the silver anniversary of the Women's Army Corps.

On this day, in 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the bill introduced by Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts creating the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps (WAAC).

In 1943 the WAC was established as a component of the Army of the United States; it became a permanent part of it on June 12, 1948 by the signature of President Harry S. Truman. In 1954 a permanent Women's Army Corps Center was dedicated at Fort McClellan, Ala.

In spite of its relative youth, the WAC has established itself a colorful history and an excellent record of service. By the end of World War II, approximately 100,000 WAC's were serving in the United States and overseas. At present, a detachment of 80 WAC's are serving at Headquarters, U. S. Army, Vietnam.

Neat attractive mailboxes will make a significant contribution to the objectives and success of President Johnson's Natural Beauty Program.

Mailboxes that meet the above four important requirements contribute to a more efficient delivery operation, and the result is an improved service to the postal patron.

Keep Cornell Lab

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The Cornell University faculty, by a vote of 164-133, has rejected a proposal that the university end its affiliation with the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo. The vote on the proposal came Wednesday, after mounting student and faculty opposition to the university's ties with the laboratory, which conducts classified research that includes chemical warfare projects.

Child Health Meet Slated on May 17

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the Tumor Clinic Building, 400 Broadway, May 17 from 9 to 10 a. m.

These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and polio.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child. Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted unless the physician desires this service to be taken over by the Child Health Conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

Torrissi Sentenced; Other County Court Cases Heard

A Kingston man who attempted to burglarize a Broadway store during the early hours of October 10, was sentenced to a year in the county jail Wednesday in County Court. Judge Raymond J. Mino directed that credit be allowed for time served.

Joseph Frank Torrissi, 20, of 95 East Chester Street, was found guilty after trial of entering the Spada Sport Shop at 594 Broadway.

Patrolman Albert Brown was on duty at about 1:20 a. m. last October when he heard breaking glass. Investigating he found Torrissi at the store where the glass in the door had been broken. Allegedly Torrissi pointed a 16-gauge shotgun at the officer. Brown fired his revolver at Torrissi but the bullet deflected off a thick glass and missed Torrissi, who ducked behind a counter. Ordered out of the building Torrissi surrendered to the officer, who was later honored as the Police Officer of the Year. An alleged accomplice, George L. Greenidge, 16, of 64 Van Buren Street, also surrendered.

Indicted by the Grand Jury later on charges of third degree burglary, unlawful entry and second degree assault, Torrissi was found guilty of the burglary charge after trial. Francis Martocci appeared for defendant.

Arraigned under a sealed indictment by District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca was Bernard J. Kearney, 19, also known as Barney Kearney, of 148 Fair Street. The charge of criminally receiving stolen property; criminally concealing and withholding stolen property and wrongfully acquiring property, was read on arraignment and Kearney said he would endeavor to secure counsel. He had been arrested on a warrant by Patrolman James Scott of Kingston Police Department. The indictment charges the act took place on February 24, involving property taken from the Kingston Terminal Warehouse, Inc., at 545 Broadway. The matter was adjourned to May 17 at 10 a. m. to permit defendant to obtain counsel.

Earl Peter Valdez, charged with second degree grand larceny and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, was committed to the Wassaic State School after the indictment had been dismissed on motion of District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca. J. Dunne appeared for Valdez.

Ready for Trial

Edward Mayo, charged with second degree assault, third degree assault and conspiracy as a misdemeanor, had his case marked ready for trial when Judge Mino noted that he would be ready to take up trial matters on Monday. Joseph Avis appears for Mayo, who was remanded to jail.

A number of jail cases were called for arraignment, among them several which were named in indictments returned by the April Grand Jury in a partial report. Among these were:

Robert John McGeeny, charged with third degree burglary and unlawfully entering a building. Edward Feeney, assigned attorney, appeared and a plea of innocent was entered. Adjourned to May 31 at 11 a. m. Remanded to jail.

Willie James London, charged with third degree burglary and unlawful entry to a building, (two counts). Robert Harp appeared, sought time for motions and entered a plea of innocent. Adjourned to May 31 at 11 a. m. Remanded to jail. Similar disposition was made of the case of Dennis Greg Martin, jointly indicted with London. John Lynch appears for Martin. Remanded.

Innocent Plea

A plea of innocent was entered by Timothy France of Zena, charged with third degree burglary, unlawful entry to a building and petit larceny. J. Myers appeared for defendant and asked time to make motions. Adjourned to May 31 at 11 a. m. Remanded.

Raymond Sylvester Clardy also had his case adjourned to May 31 at 11 a. m. after entering a plea of innocent. Harry Gold appeared for Clardy and sought time for motions. Clardy is charged with third degree burglary, unlawfully entering a building, attempted grand larceny in the second degree and petit larceny. He allegedly attempted to steal a car in the Town of Gardiner.

Richard Lansing Wynkoop, charged with third degree burglary, unlawfully entering a building and petit larceny was remanded to jail after entering a plea of innocent. Edward Greene, counsel, asked for time for motions and the case was adjourned to May 31, at 11 a. m. Remanded to jail.

A Huntley hearing to suppress an alleged statement and also a motion charging illegal seizure before arrest will be made in the case of Bartholomew Patrick Mondanaro, charged with third degree burglary, unlawful entry, grand larceny, second degree. Judge Mino reserved decision on the motion to suppress which was made by Edward Greene who appears as counsel for defendant.

Adjourned to May 31

Ted Eugene Kennedy, charged with first degree grand larceny and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, had his case adjourned to May 31 at 11 a. m. and he was remanded to jail. Joseph Hill, who had been assigned, withdrew because of being disqualified and Bernard A. Feeney Jr., was assigned.

Donald P. Ross entered a plea of innocent to the charge of second degree forgery and his counsel, Sherwood E. Davis announced he was ready for trial. Ross was released in custody of his counsel pending trial.

Imposition of sentence in the case of Sam Crosby Brandon, who has entered to plea of guilty to illegal possession of a firearm, was postponed to May 31 at 11 a. m. S. Greenblatt appears for defendant.

An indictment charging James L. McCowan with first degree grand larceny and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle was dismissed on motion of District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca on the grounds the defendant was a passenger in the car involved but was not involved in the taking. Bail was exonerated. W. Harp appeared for defendant.

Will Shift U. S. Combat Troops Into Viet Pacification Program

By BARRY KRAMER

SAIGON (AP) — The United States apparently has decided to assign more troops to help protect South Vietnam's embattled pacification program.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker announced today that U.S. participation in the program has been transferred from civilian to military control. Henceforth, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, will direct the American pacification effort as well.

Westmoreland, however, will have a civilian deputy heading up U.S. pacification work. He is Robert W. Komer, 44, special assistant to President Johnson, who is known to have recommended that the military take over.

Bunker, who celebrated his 73rd birthday today, succeeded Henry Cabot Lodge two weeks ago.

He said the change was ordered to bolster security for Vietnamese revolutionary development-pacification teams who are trying to supplant Viet Cong influence in the countryside and because the greater part of the American advisory and logistics assets in South Vietnam belong to the military.

The South Vietnamese army has been primarily responsible for protecting the villages where some 20,000 pacification workers are stationed. But security has often been lax, and more than 220 pacification workers have been killed and more than 300 wounded in guerrilla attacks since the beginning of the year.

More than 15,000 U.S. Army troops are now wholly or partially assigned to pacification work. Westmoreland, appearing at a news conference with Bunker, was asked if the number would increase.

"This will happen in varying degrees from time to time," he replied.

Without proper security, U.S. officials say, the pacification program is doomed, just as other pacification efforts over the past eight years have failed.

In Washington, William S.

Gaud, administrator for the Agency for International Development, welcomed the change. "AID employees are playing an important part in the other war in Vietnam," Gaud said.

No Guarantees Against LSD's Adverse Effects

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

DETROIT (AP) — There is no guarantee against a bad trip for the person who takes an LSD ride through the contorted scenery of his own eyes and mind, psychiatrists reported today.

Bad reactions are characterized by continuing hallucinations, anxiety and panic, depression with suicidal tendencies, and by confusion.

The wayward LSD user usually shows up at a hospital in trouble, the researchers told, a meeting of the American Psychiatric Association.

Many Myths
There are some increasingly believed myths about ways to insure a "good" trip on LSD, said Dr. J. Thomas Unterleider and Duke D. Fisher of UCLA's Neuropsychiatric Institute. Among the myths:

Stay in a calm frame of mind. Have one or two good friends, or an experienced sitter or guide handy.

Take the trip in a room with soft lighting and a thick carpet or mattress to sit on.

Listen to Indian music and phrases from the "Tibetan Book of the Dead," or have a powerful tranquilizer on hand.

Unfortunately, said the UCLA researchers, people who take these precautions still end up in hospitals with bad LSD reactions.

Group Comparison
The UCLA team compared the experiences of a group of patients in the hospital with an outside group that also took LSD for religious purposes. The outside group which met in suburban Los Angeles called themselves "The Disciples."

They were trying to sell the idea that the unlimited use of LSD was a good thing. They said they were all a "bunch of ex-convicts and criminals" before they began using LSD.

The hospitalized patients included some who had used the drug up to 100 times before having an adverse reaction. It included people who took the drug at parties and those who took it alone.

One of the disciple group had claimed at an initial interview to have had nothing but benefit from LSD. But 10 months later his wife told psychiatrists that he had quit his job, was staying away from home, refused to eat anything colored red, and threw everything red out of his home.

Woodstock Educational TV Will Be Topic At B of E Meet

Education Television is the educational topic to be presented at the May 15 meeting of the Ontario Board of Education. The meeting will be held at Woodstock Elementary School at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Donaldson, of the Woodstock staff will begin the program by giving the history of educational TV in the Woodstock building. The availability of Cablevision was one of the reasons for choosing the Woodstock School for this pilot project.

At Ontario, Mrs. Donaldson will also discuss the reactions of the faculty to the educational TV programs being utilized at Woodstock.

A teaching demonstration using a program from Channel 13's series "Exploring Your Language," will be given by Mrs. Mary Cawson, Language Arts teacher at Woodstock. Mrs. Cawson will demonstrate activities carried on with her class prior to viewing the program. A sample from the program "Improving Your Poems and Stories" will be shown on video tape. Follow-up activities in the class will also be demonstrated.

Dr. George R. Sullivan, superintendent at Ontario, will conclude the program by discussing the many educational uses of television and suggesting the many possible ways that education by television could be utilized and expanded at Ontario. Dr. Sullivan will use video tapes from the central library in Albany and tapes made at the Ontario High School in his presentation.

J. O'Toole, of the A-V Corporation, Albany; Vincent Carey, Ontario's Audio-Visual Co-ordinator; Frank Hancock of the Woodstock faculty and Ronald P. Vanni, Elementary Co-ordinator at Ontario, assisted with the program.

Reslate Concert
By Ontario Band
Postponed earlier due to circumstances beyond control, the annual Music Department Spring Concert of Ontario High School has now been definitely rescheduled for Tuesday, May 16 at 8:30 p. m. in the High School auditorium at Boiceville.

The concert will follow the P-T-A teachers recognition dinner that evening and will feature members of the Ontario High School Band and Junior High School Band under the direction of Harry Simon and Ronald Westervelt respectively.

The program will see the Junior High Band playing John Philip Sousa and Oesterling marches, a brief beguine festival, a Bach suite, four Bartok pieces, an American folk rhapsody and a number from the French film, The Umbrellas of Cherbourg.

The High School Band will be heard in a concert suite and concert march, as well as in two symphonic songs for band and Hanson's Choral and Allulua.

Proceeds from the concert will go towards the music scholarship fund which each year enables deserving music students to attend the summer music session for high school students at the University of Vermont in Burlington. Tickets for adults and students will be available from band members or at the door the evening of the concert.

Venus' Arms
It is generally believed by art authorities that the statue of Venus de Milo had arms. When unearthed, it was in two parts and pieces of the arms were found with it, as well as a pedestal with an inscription. These later disappeared and have never again been found.

Clay Claims to Be Boxer, Not Killer
CHICAGO (AP) — "My intention is to box and win a clean fight — but in war the intention is to kill, kill, kill, and continue killing innocent people."

This was the explanation that Cassius Clay, who prefers the name Muhammad Ali, gave to 2,500 youths at an antiwar rally Wednesday for his refusal to enter military service.

When the rally, sponsored by students at the University of Chicago, ended, Ali cupped his hand to his ear and shouted: "Who's the heavyweight champion of the world?"

"You are! Muhammad Ali!" the youths screamed, Clay grinned.

Clay, whose heavyweight boxing title has been removed, also beamed earlier when the Rev. James Bevel, an aide to Dr. Martin Luther King, labeled the Vietnam war "a program of genocide."

Cites Racism
"We American Negroes will not stand idly by and watch Muhammad Ali lynched by the racists of this country," Bevel said.

Clay, Bevel, and Garv Rader, member of an Army Special Forces Reserve company who burned what he said were his Selective Service papers last month in New York — all denounced the war from a platform in the university's Stagg Fieldhouse.

"I have been asked as to why I have refused to be inducted, especially as I will lose so much," Clay said. "I would like to say I did not lose a thing. I gained a lot."

"I have gained a peace of mind. I have gained a peace of heart. I know I am in content with almighty God himself, whose proper name is Allah."

Clay repeated his contention that he should be exempt from the draft as a Black Muslim minister.

"I am in court seeking justice under the laws of the land," he said. "I am a Muslim minister and a teacher of the religion of Islam."

"They say a prize fighter's main goal is violence," Clay added, then shouted: "There is no goal of difference of fighting in the ring and going to war in Vietnam."

No Viet Referee
"In the ring," he said, "We have a referee to stop the fight if one man should become too hurt physically."

"Boxing," he said, "is nothing like going to war with machine guns, bazookas, hand grenades and bomber airplanes."

"Right now, at this very moment, in Louisville, Ky.," Clay said slowly, "my people are being clobbered and stoned! Women beat up! Kicked! For what? Just simply demanding the right to live in the neighborhood which they choose!"

"And then they turned around and send us to war!"

Violence has accompanied some marches in Louisville backing a proposed open housing bill.

Retiring From Post At Wallkill Central

A testimonial dinner is planned for Mrs. Hazel Evans Ronk who is retiring this year from teaching in the Wallkill Central School District. Mrs. Ronk spent 35 years teaching in and around the town of Shawangunk.

Mrs. Ronk prepared for her teaching career by attending the Syracuse City Normal school. Mrs. Ronk received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Education in 1954 from the College at New Paltz, State University of New York. Her first teaching position was in a one room school at Clintonville, N. Y., which was only three miles from her own home. She taught in this situation for four years. In July of 1936 she moved to this area and took a teaching position in the one room school at New Hurley, New York.

At the time of centralization of the Wallkill schools in 1939 New Hurley was included, and Mrs. Ronk remained as teacher. She then joined the staff at the central school building in 1942 in Wallkill as a junior high school teacher of math and citizen education. In 1947 she was assigned to teach first grade and was in first grade when the new Ostrander Elementary Building was opened in 1955. The following year she was reassigned to teach fourth grade from which she is retiring this year.

Mrs. Ronk also made a very important contribution to the Wallkill Teachers' Association of which she has been an active member. She has served as president and treasurer. Her participation in the Association's annual production are also remembered.

She has been an active member of the Wallkill Reformed Church in which she sang in the church choir, and is an active worker in church organizations. Mrs. Ronk was a member of the Wallkill Valley Community Chorus which met in Waldeen for several years. She was a member of the original committee for summer recreation in the village of Wallkill.

The testimonial dinner is sponsored by the Wallkill Teachers Association and will be held on June 2, 1967 at the Villa Nuova in Plattekill at 7 p. m. All her community friends are invited to join with the faculty to honor Mrs. Ronk.

Reservations and detailed information may be obtained through the Testimonial Dinner Committee at the Ostrander Elementary School, Wallkill, N. Y.

Concert of Symphonic Works Saturday: Vassar

Or Saturday May 13 at 8:30 p. m., the combined orchestras of Princeton University and Vassar College will present a concert of major symphonic works in Skinner Hall. The occasion marks the first time the Vassar College orchestra ever joined with another orchestral organization in order to be able to perform works of a scope not possible for small orchestra.

The combined Vassar-Princeton orchestra will number more than 80 players with, in addition to a full string section, a woodwind section which includes two piccolos, English horn, two flutes, bass clarinet, and contrabassoon; a brass section which includes six horns, three trumpets, trombones and tuba; and a percussion section with four tympani and enough other drums, cymbals, rattles, whips and triangles to keep three percussion players very busy. Also part of the tonal palette for the concert are a harp and a celeste. The public is invited.

The program for Saturday night makes full use of these vast tonal resources. Four Sea Interludes from opera "Peter Grimes" by Benjamin Britten evoke the sweep of the sea and the turmoil of men through brilliant orchestral writing which gave them immediate success in the concert repertoire. Pictures At An Exhibition by Moussorgsky as orchestrated by Maurice Ravel is a magnificent translation of the original piece. Ravel's genius for orchestration calls upon a myriad of orchestral colors to highlight the ten paintings of Moussorgsky. The program will begin with the Overture to "Fidelio" by Beethoven.

Conductors for the concert will be Robert Freeman and Robert Rudie. Mr. Freeman is an assistant professor on the Princeton faculty, and a concert pianist.

Welcome Wagon Club

UCBW PRESIDENT GREETES GUESTS—Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, at left, re-elected to a second term as president of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, greets guests attending installing ceremonies held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Tuesday night (May 9). Guests included (l-r) District III Director Katherine Abel; former state BPW president Margaret Barnard, now retired commissioner, New York State Department of Welfare; and Eleanor Daley, community consultant, New York State Office For Aging. Miss Daley conferred with the local organization about the needs of elder citizens, an area of interest to the club's Civic Participation Committee, Beverly Reese, chairman.

Business, Professional Women Visited by State Officials

Congratulatory messages were in order Tuesday night (May 9) at the Governor Clinton Hotel as Carolyn Delamater, third vice president of the New York State Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., installed incumbents of the local county BPW club for a second term of office.

They are: Dorothy A. Narel, president; Charlotte McGraw, first vice president; Vera Bishop, second vice president; Mary Fisher, corresponding secretary; Margaret McCordle, recording secretary; and Ethel Howard, treasurer.

Guin Hall, deputy commissioner of the Woman's Department, New York State Department of Commerce commended the Ulster County Club on its activities in a special message, and Loretta Spacek, BPW state president, cited the club's membership growth as "phenomenal."

In her message, Miss Hall said: "On behalf of the Woman's Program of the New York State Department of Commerce, may I extend best wishes to your officers and congratulate them for the excellent work they have done in stimulating so much activity for women in Ulster County."

"It is because of talented, energetic and willing working women such as all of you in BPW that we have been able to achieve the status in New York State of leading the way for women."

"... Obviously eyes of the nation are on us. We watch with great interest the programs which you develop and will stand by ready to be helpful if you need us."

STATE BPW OFFICIALS chat with re-elected first vice president of the local BPW club, Charlotte McGraw, at right. Paying her first visit to Ulster County was, at left, Miss Loretta Spacek, president of New York State

Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., an affiliate of the National and International BPW Clubs. With her is Carolyn Delamater, third vice president of the state level, who served as installing officer Tuesday night.

RECORDING AND CORRESPONDING SECRETARIES — Listening to pianist James Adams, New York City representative of Community Concerts Association, are re-elected BPW officers (l-r) Margaret McCordle, recording secretary, and Mary Fisher, corresponding secretary. Mr. Adams was introduced by BPW member Collette Sonnenberg. Arrangements for the program were made by Charlotte McGraw, program chairman.

ETHEL HOWARD, re-elected UCBPW treasurer, also served as finance committee chairman during the past year for the local club and was responsible for leading its successful fund raising campaigns. With the exception of the treasurer, BPW officers may serve only two terms in one office.

In a brief address, Mrs. Narel lauded the work of her officers committee chairmen and committee members. Cited for outstanding service during the past year were: Virginia Neher, personal development chairman; Vera Bishop, membership chairman; Beverly Reese, civic participation; Alma Macholdt, public relations; Mary Polhemus, world affairs; Hilda Krum, house committee; Mary Fisher, reservations.

Miss Spacek, the keynote speaker, outlined the purpose of a BPW club by saying that it gives to each member a place for group thought and group action.

"It extends an opportunity to discuss matters of legislative importance to you as citizens in your community, state, and nation and to your nation in world affairs," Miss Spacek said. "It offers you a place for an exchange of mutual ideas with other women and a place where you can meet women in businesses or professions akin to your own. It gives you the opportunity to examine the qualifications of individuals seeking elective or appointive political positions and, in the instance of a woman seeking such a position, why her qualifications are equal to or better than those of her male counterpart who is seeking the same position.

"Your club is a proving ground for self-expression, for obtaining a knowledge of parliamentary procedure, for acquiring the techniques of accomplishing an objective by working with and through others, for attaining a feedback in personal development which is sometimes difficult to equate but is always realized; a place where education in one form or another is always prevalent; a media where guidance can be given to the future leaders of tomorrow; and last but not least, your Club offers you the stimulus of fellowship with other women," Miss Spacek concluded.

Doing The Right Thing

BY ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

WEDDING HELD NEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW'S HOME

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter's future mother-in-law is a sick woman who lives in a suburb of a large city. My daughter wishes the wedding be held in a city hotel. The lady gets about in her own apartment, but never leaves it. It would take about 30 minutes to get her to the hotel vs. five minutes to get to a caterer's in the neighborhood. I feel the bride should have the choice, but should she hold the wedding in the suburb to keep peace among the families, — Molly F.

Dear Mrs. F.: Since the suburb where your daughter's future mother-in-law lives is close enough to the city so that friends could get to the wedding fairly easily, your daughter should go along with her wishes and have the wedding near her house.

What To Say At A Funeral Parlor

Dear Mrs. Post: When paying one's respects at a funeral parlor and members of the family say "Thank you for coming," what should the answer be?—Kay

Dear Kay: You need say nothing; just a smile and a handshake is enough, or you might say, "I only wish I could do more."

Birthday Party For A Fifteen-Year-Old

Dear Mrs. Post: What kind of birthday party would you suggest for a girl who is going to be 15 years old in June? She is going to be a sophomore in high school next year. Should she invite boys to her dance, or should the girls that she invites ask their own special boy friends?—Pat S.

Dear Pat: Your friend should invite both boys and girls to her dance. If some wish to bring a date who had not been invited, they will undoubtedly call to ask if it is all right. But by asking girls and boys there should be more general dancing and cutting in than if every girl has her own date.

Regents Fellowships for Graduate Study Now Available to Nurse-Teachers

The New York State Education Department announced today that applications are now being accepted for the newly established Regents fellowships for graduate study in nursing. Dr. James E. Allen, State Commissioner of Education, stated that 200 such fellowship awards were created by the 1967 State Legislature for the purpose of helping to eliminate the critical shortage of trained nurse teachers and administrators. Each Regents fellowship carries a stipend of up to $2,500 a year for two years of graduate study in nursing in a college in New York State. Applications will be accepted until June 1. Fellowship winners will be chosen by a special selection panel after review of each candidate's academic record and qualifications. Applications can be obtained by writing directly to the Regents Examination and Scholarship Center, State Education Department, Albany 12224.

Ulster Hose Prepares Shipments

By WALTER S. CLARK

A large scale packaging project will start Saturday at Ulster Hose Co. firehouse on Albany Avenue, to prepare gift shipments for Ulster County men and women serving with the armed forces in Vietnam.

Edward H. Engelhardt, general chairman of the Ulster County Vietnam Servicemen's Committee of the fire company, said today that the wide variety of gifts donated by area residents, businesses and organizations during the weekend radiothon, will be transported soon to San Francisco for shipment.

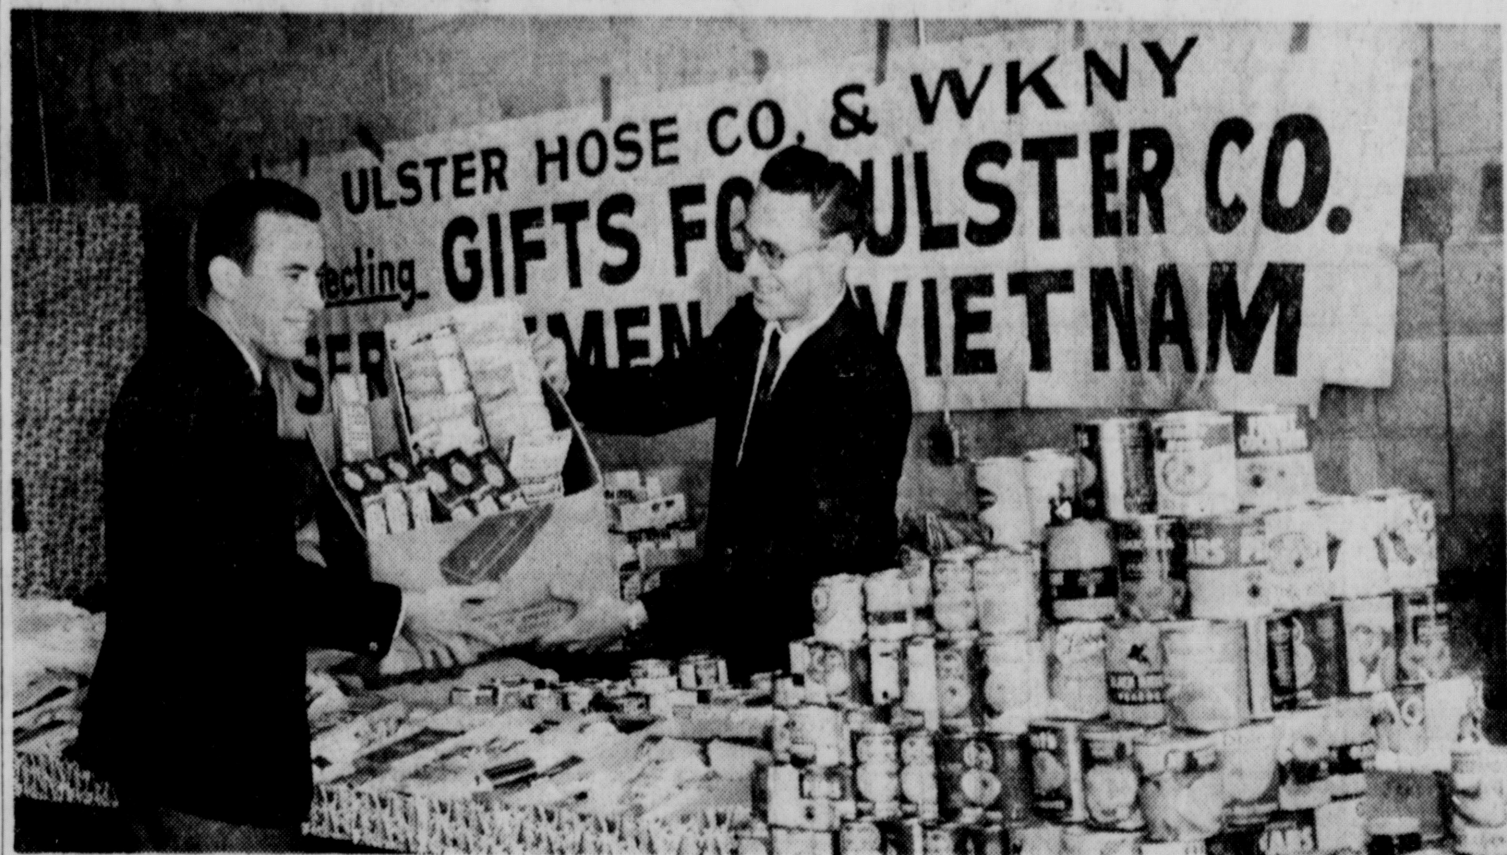

Engelhardt noted Wednesday the monetary gifts already deposited in the bank, totaled $10,842. He said that pledges received by volunteer workers during the 30-hour radiothon on WKNY made the total $11,741, and that the pledges are being received from the contributors.

An inventory of gifts was completed Tuesday night by the committee and volunteers, and Chairman Engelhardt has released the various items. He said that some of the cash received will be used to purchase essential items so that each county man and woman in Vietnam will receive an equal number of articles.

The inventory as listed by the Ulster Hose committee follows:

Three hundred cans of vegetables and soup, 250 cans of fruit, 80 cans of fish, 35 large cans of fruit drink, 300 packages of soup mix, 125 cans potato sticks, 50 cans breakfast drink, 3,000 packages Kool-Aid, 60 cans of meat, 50 bath towels, 150 hand towels, 500 wash cloths, 100 sponges, 100 reels recording tape, 100 flash light batteries, 100 miscellaneous games.

Four hundred packages of razor blades, 15 shaving kits, 200 cans shaving cream, 150 jars after shave lotion, 25 cans processed milk, 25 packages of instant jello, 100 small boxes

GIFTS FOR VIETNAM are being collected here by radio station WKNY's Jim Tyrrell and Edward Engelhardt of Ulster Hose No. 5, chairman of the drive. With Ulster County residents turning out in full force over the weekend, moved by Freeman articles and a 30 hour radiothon, $11,741 was collected for area GIs, along with 7,564 pounds of gifts. A total of 160 names of Ulster men and women now serving in Vietnam have been compiled and each will be the recipient of a gift package and a subscription to the Daily Freeman. (Photo by Kruh) of cereal, 150 packs playing cards, 3,000 plastic bags, 150 boxes of cookies, 500 packs of cigarettes, 2,000 pens and pencils, 15,000 envelopes, 500 boxes of writing paper.

Twenty-five pounds of walnuts, 2,500 packs of gum, 120 cans of nuts, 600 rolls life savers, 300 candy bars, 50 cans candy, 100 bags assorted candy, 120 boxes raisins, 20 boxes peanut brittle, 18 fruit cakes, 340 bags miscellaneous candy, one transistor radio, six cameras, six lighters, one battery operated razor, three flashlights, nine packages of film, one fish reel, 40 tubes shaving cream, several thousand books, 75 after shave kits, 250 packets of laundry detergent, 2,000 bars soap, 450 tubes of tooth paste, 175 pairs of shoe laces, 200 tooth brushes, 125 jars spray deodorant, 125 cans shoe polish, 125 packages of tea mix, 40 containers instant coffee, 200 containers of chocolate mix.

Lottery Tickets Stay At A Dollar Apiece

By GERRY McLAUGHLIN

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A state tax official has rejected any thoughts of raising the price of state lottery tickets above $1 to help compensate motels, banks and other licensed ticket-sellers for their services.

State Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy said late Wednesday that tickets would be sold for $1. The compensation requested by or sold to licensed sellers of tickets will have no effect on the price, he added.

"This clarification," Murphy said "was essential because of published reports that tickets might be priced at more than $1 to cover the compensation of licensed ticket sellers."

A top official of the Tax Department told The Associated Press Tuesday that a price increase was under consideration. On Wednesday the Department of Taxation and Finance was besieged with phone calls concerning the price.

In his Wednesday statements Murphy said there was no basis for the report.

Earlier in the second and final hearing on distribution of tickets, motel and hotel officials asked for as much as 12 cents a ticket, to handle sales of chances in the $180 million lottery.

Murphy said that a decision on the compensation for sellers probably would be made next week.

The commissioner told newsmen after the hearing that his department was studying several possible methods of paying vendors.

Armed Forces Day To Aid VA Patients

A special "Salute" to patients at Castle Point Veterans Administration Hospital is being planned in conjunction with Armed Forces Day, May 20.

Gifts and money will be collected for distribution to veterans of all wars who are at the hospital. Mrs. Joan Conway, director of the Armed Forces Salute program, said gifts of all types from paperback books to electric shavers are needed. Money donated will be used to purchase coupon books which patients may redeem at the hospital PX.

Contributions may be taken to any of the three local radio stations or left at a booth to be manned by Boy Scouts of Troop 20, Hurley, at the Kingston Plaza on Armed Forces

Day. Radio stations are WGHQ at 82 John Street; WBAZ at 527 Broadway and WKNY at 601 Broadway. A full program for Armed Forces Day will be held at the Kingston Plaza starting 10 a. m. Formal ceremonies will begin 2 p. m. with a fly over of jets from Stewart Air Force Base. Dr. J. K. Deegan, acting director of Castle Point will be on hand to receive the gifts for veterans.

the Apollo moon vehicle, this week received a congratulatory letter from the Xerox Corporation for the two other patents useful to the Rochester-based firm.

His latest patents bring to five the number granted him by the United States Patent Office in recent months, including one for an improved version of his "High Capacity Electrolytic Coulometer," to be used on the moon rocket.

The Coulometer is essentially a timing device, about the size of half a cigarette, that can be set to measure intervals from about 30 minutes to a hundred years. It is now being produced for commercial purposes and is potentially useful for TV pollsters to tell how long a set is operating. It can also be adapted to function as a timing switch.

His two new patents were given for a new type of light-sensitive drum for xerography. Other patents include one potentially important in the technology of computer information storage and retrieval and photoconductive chemical and its preparation.

He has recently returned to New Paltz from a term as visiting associate professor at the University of Rochester where he taught advanced instrumental techniques. Dr. Corrin holds the PhD degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Add M16 to Army Weaponry Array

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lightweight M16 rifle, battle-proven in Vietnam, has been designated a full-fledged member of the Army's weaponry array.

"Light-weight, fast-firing, rugged and hard-hitting, it has demonstrated its versatility and effectiveness in combat," the Pentagon said Wednesday in announcing the M16 has been named a standard service weapon.

The heavier M14, which replaced the World War II M1, will remain the standard weapon for troops stationed in Europe. Weighing just over eight pounds—two more than the M16—the M14 fires the standard 7.62mm cartridge of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

All Precision Not Stunt Flier Says Paul Mantz

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Said veteran movie flier Paul Mantz: "I'm supposed to be a devil-may-care aviator in helmet and goggles, white scarf whipping back, roaring under bridges, flying through open hangars, deliberately crashing planes into spintners, diving through narrow canyons in search of more and more thrills."

"I've done all that, sure. But I am not a stunt pilot. I'm a precision flier, and I'm alive today to prove it."

Indeed Paul Mantz was a precision flier, and during his lifetime he provided the screen with more aerial thrills than any other pilot. He walked away from a hundred crashes that could have killed.

But his usually canny calculation of risk and danger failed him on July 8, 1965. That was the day he went up in a rickety hand-made plane for "flight of the Phoenix." His partner, Frank Tallman, was scheduled to fly the Phoenix. But Tallman had broken his leg in a freak home accident — and would later lose the leg.

So Mantz, doubling for James Stewart, flew the plane in the 140-degree heat of Arizona's Butte Valley. Hanging onto a wing was stunt man Bobby Rose. Both were in their 60s and pushing their luck after a lifetime of danger.

Rose's luck held firm. Mantz was killed.

The life of Paul Mantz is chronicled in an arresting new book with the prosaic title of "Hollywood Pilot" (Doubleday, $6.50). The author is Don Dwiggin, a flying aficionado and former aviation editor of the Los Angeles Mirror-News.

Dwiggin faced a challenging assignment in penetrating the exterior of Paul Mantz. Like many men who face danger on a day-to-day basis, Mantz shielded his feelings. He could seem aloof, but only because he did not allow himself to display any emotion. Yet there was no mistaking the inner turmoil.

Mermaid Legend
It is thought that the posture of the mermaid in holding its young to the breast, as human mothers do, was noted by ancient seafaring men, thus giving rise to the legend of the mermaids — half-woman and half-fish.

Pick Nassau College To Take Region XV Tourney at Stadium

Nassau Community College, defending Junior College champions, are favored to win the Region XV tournament, scheduled to begin Friday at Dietz Stadium.

Hosted by Ulster Community College, the field, in addition to the Senators and Nassau, included Montgomery Junior College of Maryland and Suffolk Community College.

Nassau will oppose Ulster in an 8 o'clock game Friday night. The favorites hold a 12-0 win over Ulster this year, having turned the trick back in April.

The two-day tourney gets underway Friday at noon when Montgomery Junior College plays Suffolk.

Title Clash Saturday
Losers of Friday's contests will collide at 2 o'clock Saturday for consolation honors. Winners will meet at 8 the same night for the Region XV championship.

Nationals in Colorado
The champion of the local tournament will meet the Region III (New England) winner next Saturday. That will decide the Eastern representative in the national tourney at Grand Junction, Colorado.

In qualifying games this week, Nassau beat Mitchell Junior College, 9-3; Montgomery turned back Rockland, 7-2 and Suffolk stopped Baltimore Junior College 5-1.

Nassau is 11-1 for the season and is a consistent powerhouse in Metropolitan area circles. Ulster has a 6-3 record and has clinched a tie for the Mid-Hudson Conference championship.

Suffolk comes into play with an 8-3 mark, including the upset of the highly regarded Baltimore Junior College nine. Montgomery Jr. College lists a 16-4 record.

Al DiBernardo, athletic director and baseball coach at Ulster is tournament chairman.

Sawyers Lose Early 2-0 Lead In Final Frames

Baseball rules state each team must record three outs before an inning is over. That third out proved to be a tough one for Saugerties High in its 3-2 DCSL setback Wednesday at Arlington.

Sawyer starter Dave Ellis was cruising along on a 2-0 lead and had a no-hitter going into the sixth inning. He retired the first two batters.

Then, in quick succession came a base hit to spoil the no-hit bid, a walk and two singles more to end the shutout try and knot the game at 2-2.

Two Outs And Then . . .

Coach Pete Kramer sent in Tony Konopka to hurl the seventh. He retired two batters and it appeared as if the game would go into extra innings. But, a pinch single by Jim Fenn, a wild pitch and a hit by Curt Stokes plus an outfield error gave the Admirals the victory.

The Sawyers tallied single runs in the first and second frames off Gene Bosse, a stylish lefty. In the opening session, Bill Perks singled, went to second on an error and scored on a hit by John Silinovich.

A walk, error and hit by Jeff Leone gave the Sawyers their second run. After that, Bosse settled down and hurled shutout ball the rest of the way to pick up the win.

In other league action, Poughkeepsie whitewashed Lourdes, 6-0, to take over first place and Roosevelt stopped Beacon, 7-5.

Saugerties is home Friday against Wappingers and has a Saturday morning home tilt against Beacon.

Streamlined Torres On Hitting Rampage

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Torre, whose home run output once went up with his weight, has found he didn't need the extra pounds after all.

The big Atlanta catcher slimmed down over the winter to around 205 pounds, about 10 below the weight he carried when he rose to National League stardom.

With three homers in the Braves' doubleheader split with the Phillies Wednesday, Torre showed that the streamlining hadn't hurt him a bit.

Torre knocked one over the left-field stands in the first game, which Philadelphia won 4-3. He added two more in the nightcap won by the Braves 7-2.

Hank Aaron also homered in each game.

When Torre first came up to the majors he weighed in at round 205 and not until he went up to 215 three years ago, did he really break loose in the homerun and batting average department.

Still, Torre's managers nagged at him to lose a few pounds and this winter he finally did it. Now with a total of seven homers, 18 runs batted in and a batting average of .277 and rising, he can forget about going off that diet.

Veale Stops Cards

In other National League games Wednesday, Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 2-1, Los Angeles topped Houston 5-1 in 10 innings, Cincinnati beat New York 7-4 and Chicago edged San Francisco 5-4.

The Phillies won the first game of their doubleheader on a wild pitch with the bases loaded in the ninth by Phil Niekro. Aaron's homer—the one in the first game was inside the park—gave him a total of seven for the season. Mack Jones also hit one out for the Braves in the second game.

Bob Veale went 8 2-3 innings for the Pirates and set the Cards down on just five hits run and batting average department.

In other National League games Wednesday, Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 2-1, Los Angeles topped Houston 5-1 in 10 innings, Cincinnati beat New York 7-4 and Chicago edged San Francisco 5-4.

The Phillies won the first game of their doubleheader on a wild pitch with the bases loaded in the ninth by Phil Niekro. Aaron's homer—the one in the first game was inside the park—gave him a total of seven for the season. Mack Jones also hit one out for the Braves in the second game.

Bob Veale went 8 2-3 innings for the Pirates and set the Cards down on just five hits run and batting average department.

Still, Torre's managers nagged at him to lose a few pounds and this winter he finally did it. Now with a total of seven homers, 18 runs batted in and a batting average of .277 and rising, he can forget about going off that diet.

Flint Bowler
Rolls 278-889
To Pace Queens

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A 37-year-old mother of four from Flint, Mich., shot a final game of 278 Wednesday to take the lead in the opening four-game block of the women's International Bowling Congress Queens Tournament.

Mrs. Jeanette Robinson rolled a 194-211-206-278—889 to go three pins up on second-place Mrs. Myrt De Fily of San Antonio, who also turned in a 278 final game.

Another four-game block Thursday will mark the end of the qualifying rounds for 400 entrants in the Queens competition.

Match play begins Thursday night with 61 qualifiers, plus three seeded players, shooting for the top spot that will be decided Sunday night.

Seeded are Judy Lee of Los Angeles, the defending champion, Joy Abel of Chicago, selected Bowler of the Year, and Kate Helwig, Mohton, Pa., last year's WIBC all-events champion.

Mrs. Robinson, a bowling instructor and president of the Professional Women's Bowlers' Association, reeled off nine strikes, left a three pin in the 10th, spared it and again broke for nine in her windup game.

The 278 was her highest single game in her 14 years of bowling.

Mrs. De Fily, a 43-year-old mother, carries a 190 average and is one of the few women bowlers in the nation who has a sanctioned 300 game to her credit.

Mrs. De Fily, who has been bowling 16 years, has won the San Antonio scratch bowling title six times and has twice been the Texas scratch bowling champion.

In her 278 finish, she started with five strikes in a row, spared, and then tacked on five more strikes.

Robertson Paces
Jets Over Chiefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It looks as though there's life in rookie Bob Robertson's bat, after all, and that may be just what the Columbus Jets need to move into contention in the International League race.

The 20-year-old third baseman banged out a single, double and home run Wednesday night as the Jets trounced the Syracuse Chiefs 7-0 and tied the losers for third place.

Other action saw the Toronto Maple Leafs whip the Jacksonville Suns 1-0 and 6-3, the Buffalo Bisons turn back the Richmond Braves 2-0 and the Rochester Red Wings beat the Toledo Mud Hens 4-2.

Going into Wednesday night's game, Robertson had just three hits in 22 times at bat and had driven in only one run. His 3-for-3 performance upped his batting average from .120 to .214, and he also drove in three runs.

The hitting of Robertson and veteran Joe Christopher, who belted a three-run homer, made it easy for John Gelnar, who scattered six hits in pitching his third straight victory.

Jerry Stephenson pitched a three-hitter for Toronto's opening-game triumph at Jacksonville. Syd O'Brien doubled home the only run in the sixth. The Maple Leafs put the nightcap away in a hurry with five runs in the first, John Ryan and Bob Montgomery each driving in two.

With the aid of a Toronto error, the Suns finally ended a string of 22 scoreless innings by scoring three times in the sixth in the second game.

Ernie Broglio and Jack Baldwin combined to shut out the Jets with a five-hitter. Broglio had done the job all by himself last week and allowed just one hit. Frank Obregon doubled home a Bion run in the first inning, and Steve Boros homered for the other one in the second.

Webutuck Tossers
Top Red Hook, 11-6

Tom Downey, Webutuck Central staked himself to a three-run lead with a 3-run homer in the first inning and went on to pitch his team to an 11-6 victory over Red Hook Central Wednesday at Red Hook.

Downey permitted only four hits and struck out 10. Three of the Red Hook safeties were singles by Rifenburgh, the third baseman.

The loss was only the second in seven starts for Coach Vic Rothmann's Hookers. They meet Oakland in a DCSL Small Division contest game Friday.

Downey added a single to his homer and second baseman Lind had two singletons. Shultz tripled for the winners.

Epstein Says "No"

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Veteran pitchers hurling shut out baseball and veteran hitters batting over .300 were among the cut-down casualties, but the biggest sparks may fly from the optioning of a rookie hitting .194.

He is first baseman Mike Epstein, touted by Baltimore to their Rochester farm club before Wednesday night's major league deadline to reach the 25-player limit.

"Mike said he was very disappointed and might not report to Rochester," said Oriole Manager Hank Bauer.

Epstein, 24, the minor league Player of the Year at Rochester last season, declined comment after meeting with Bauer and Harry Dalton, Baltimore director of player personnel.

"I pointed out the opportunities to him," Dalton said, "but it's his career and it's his decision."

Among those once highly publicized veterans to get pink slips were Ralph Terry, Bill Monbouquette, Gordy Coleman, Manny Jimenez and Bob Buhl.

Atlanta hospitalized ace right-hander Tony Cloninger, 1-1, for an indefinite period. The former 20-game winner, who has not pitched since April 26 because of a pulled back muscle and a virus infection, is suffering from an eye problem.

The Los Angeles Dodgers traded infielder John Werhas to the California Angels for outfielder Len Gabrielson and the third baseman Ed Charles from Kansas City for $60,000 and minor league outfielder Larry Elliot. The Mets also bought utility infielder Bob Johnson and pitcher John Miller from Baltimore.

Epstein was unable to beat out Boog Powell at first base with the Orioles and Curt Bleafarv in the outfield, and Baltimore was unable to trade him when other teams would not meet its price. He had only two singles in 13 at bats.

"If he fails to report," Dalton said, "He'll be placed on the inactive list."

Terry, 31, a 10-year veteran who starred for the New York Yankees in the 1962 World Series, was given his unconditional release by the New York Mets although he did not allow a run in two relief appearances.

Torres Predicts Win Over Tiger

NEW YORK (AP)—Jose Torres says he's "psychologically up" for his title fight with Dick Tiger and predicts he will knock out the Nigerian "within 10 rounds" next Tuesday night.

That's when the two veterans will meet in a return 15-rounder for the light-heavyweight crown at Madison Square Garden.

Tiger, a 3-1 underdog, lifted the crown from the listless defender on a unanimous decision at the Garden, Dec. 16.

Despite the defeat, the 31-year-old Puerto Rican-born Torres has been made a 9-5 favorite over the 37-year-old Nigerian.

"I'll knock his brains out," said Torres Wednesday. "I'm psychologically up for this fight. I feel good. I was bad—very bad—in the first fight. I didn't jab enough and I didn't punch enough."

"I had many opportunities to knock him out but I didn't take advantage of the openings. I know the openings will be there again and this time I'll be ready for them."

"Suppose he loses?" "I'll definitely retire if I lose," said Torres. "And I may even quit if I win."

Torres said the pancreas injury inflicted in a fight with heavyweight Tom McNeeley on July 31, 1965, bothered him again before his last fight with Tiger.

"The pain is gone now and I feel fine," said Torres. "But doctors tell me that the trouble comes from fighting. So I may quit altogether, win or lose."

Monroe's 10.1 in 100 Paces Marlboro Win

Fred Monroe's record shattering time of 10.1 seconds in the 100-yard dash paced the powerful Marlboro Central track team to an overwhelming, 89½, 32½ win Wednesday over visiting Rondout Valley.

In running the 100 for the first time in meet competition, Monroe beat Leon Fitzgerald of the Ganders by 1.5 seconds. Fitzgerald's clocking established a RVC mark.

Marlboro completely dominated the field events. The Dukes had a pair of double winners as Bill Partington won the discus and mile and Rich Faulk captured the broad jump and the 220-yard dash.

Results: Shot — Howie Baker (M); Wood (M); Press (M). Distance 47 feet, 2 inches.

Motorcyclists Rap Goggle, Helmet Rule

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of motorcyclists today challenged the constitutionality of a new state law which requires cyclists and riders to wear protective helmets and goggles. The requirement went into effect last Jan. 1 and this week marks the start of returnable dates for summonses.

Ralph Lao, president of the 3,400-member Metropolitan Cycle Association, said he did not think the more than 80,000 cyclists in the state should be required to wear the protective headgear on short trips and in hot weather.

Serge Popper, who has been a motorcycle operator for 17 years, said he usually wears a helmet outside the city, but in midtown traffic it is important to hear traffic noises. The headgear of the type approved by the state costs from $20 to $45.

The protest came as Popper, a 36-year-old advertising man, pleaded innocent before Judge Daniel Weiss in Traffic Court, riding his motorcycle on the East River Drive without a helmet Jan. 24.

Bernard Dworin, his attorney, entered the plea and told the court the new law was unconstitutional because it infringed on personal liberty. The judge, noting that the policeman who issued the summons was on military leave set Nov. 10 for trial.

Dworin said a justice of the peace had ruled the new law unconstitutional on Feb. 14 in Irondequoit in Monroe County.

The lawyer said he would challenge the measure again on May 18 when another cyclist appears in court in answer to the same violation.

New Syrian Cabinet

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—President Abdel Rahman Aref took over Premier Najib Taleb's post Wednesday and named a 24-man Cabinet including three members of the once rebellious Kurdish tribe, Baghdad Radio announced.

Aref pledged to speed reconstruction of northern Iraq where the Kurds, rebelling for self-rule, fought the Iraqi army for five years until a truce last summer.

Richard L. Mosley, 26, of Hempstead, L. I., charged last Saturday with discharging a shotgun within city limits, was today given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail. He was arrested by officers Ernest Bartoff and Floyd Krom after police were notified that a shotgun had been discharged from a lower window at 89 Broadway.

The Treaty of Verdun, signed in 843, marked the beginning of France as a nation.

Dear Abby

Get Loan or Let Husband Earn

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a promising young artist. I encouraged our marriage 2 years ago and have supported it ever since by teaching school.

My parents agreed at the time of our marriage to pay for all our doctor and hospital bills, but nothing more. They are in their 50s, and my brother and I know that when they die we will each come into several hundreds of thousands of dollars. I am not interested in an inheritance. I would rather have their financial help now when I need it. I am expecting a child and will have to quit teaching soon. I am afraid when I do my marriage will fail because my husband gets depressed and falls apart when he attempts to do any work outside the field for which he is temperamentally suited.

How can I make my parents understand that it is better to help their children financially when they need it, than to die rich?

MONEY WORRIES
DEAR MONEY WORRIES: Ask your parents for a loan until your husband's talents can be developed and applied. If they refuse, your husband will have to find other means of support. Many artists have worked at jobs for which they were not "temperamentally" suited without falling apart. Perhaps if your husband knew he had to, he could, too. If he can't the responsibility for working things out is yours—not your parents.

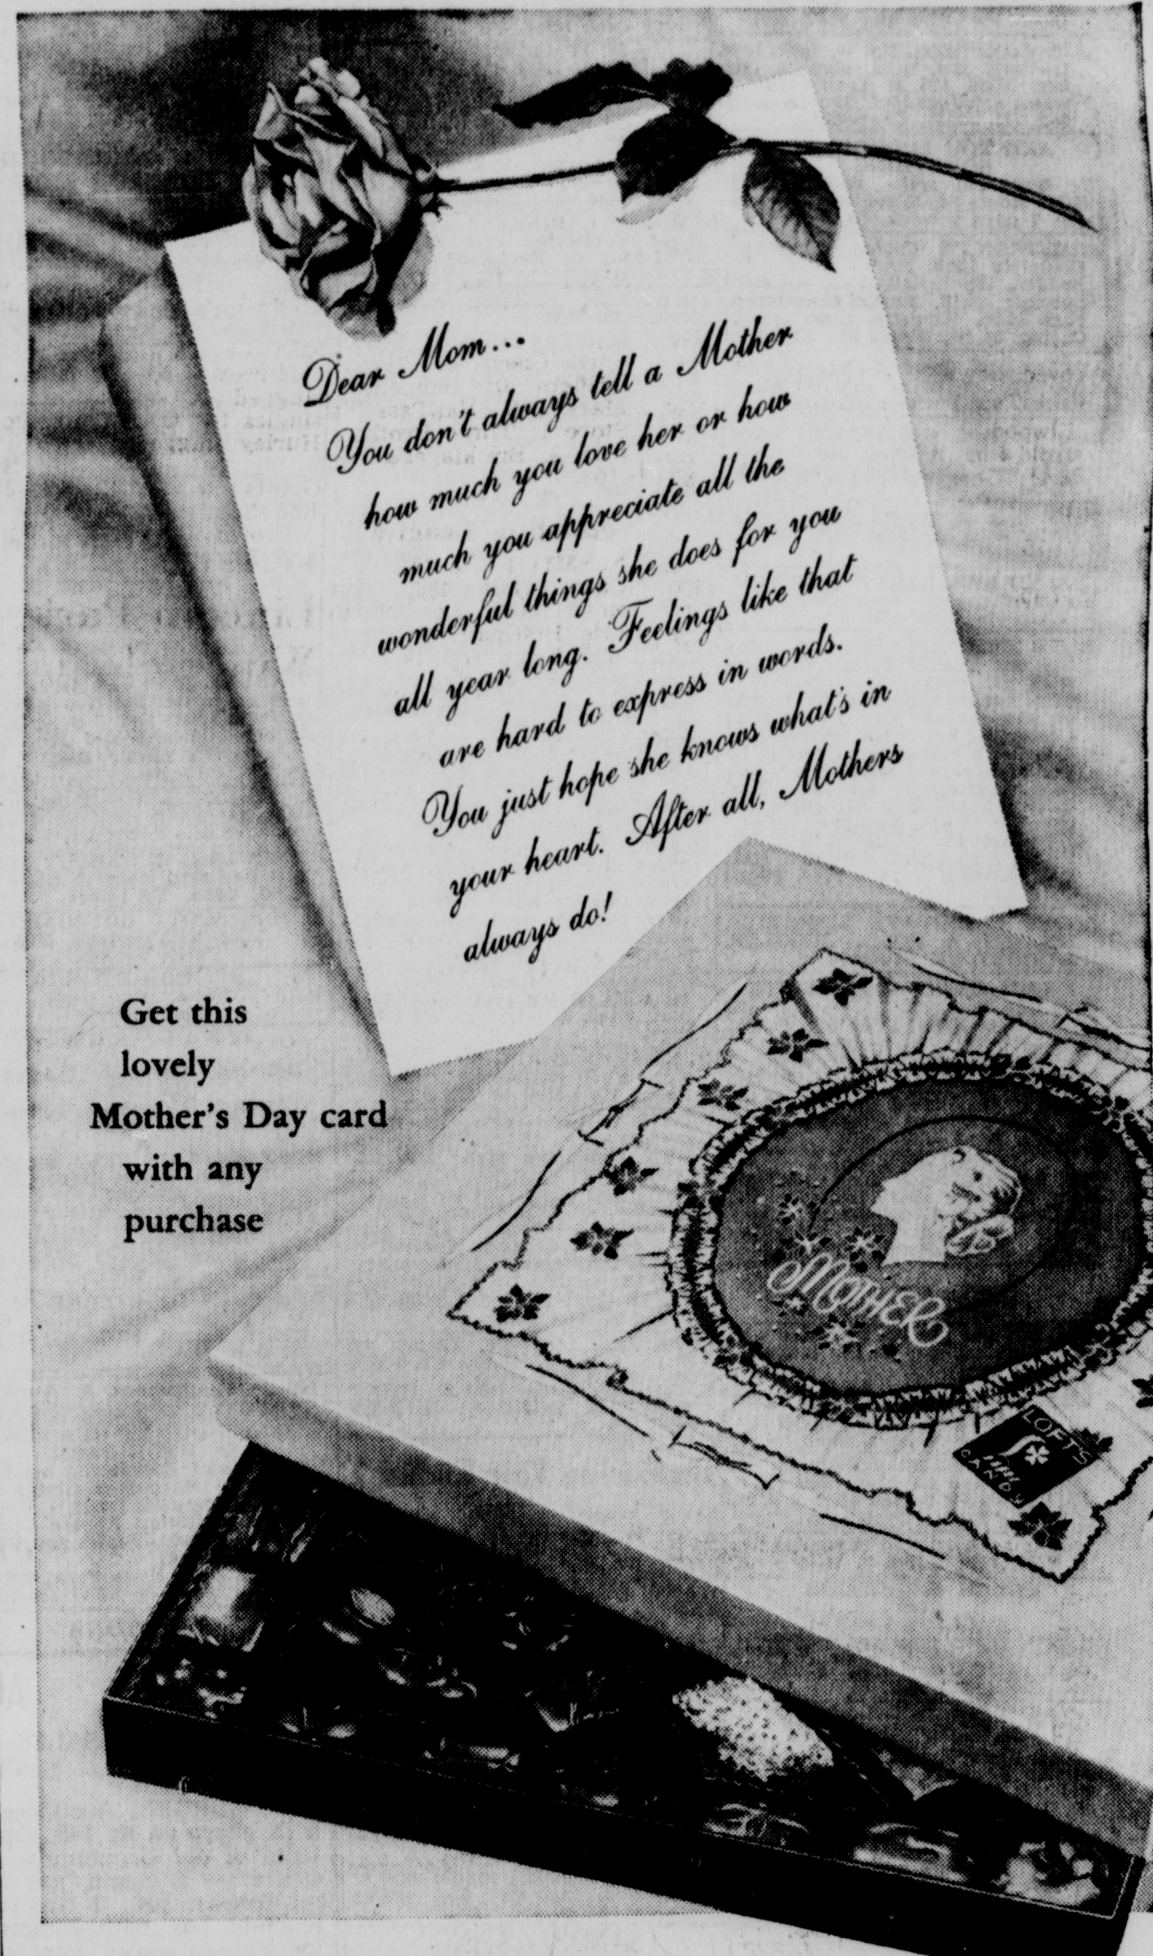

DEAR ABBY: Everyone calls my three sons "the wrecking crew." They are 9, 11, and 13, and believe me they are "all boy." I hate to take them anywhere because they don't get along with each other. Wherever we happen to be, a fight breaks out. (In the dentist's office, a shoe store, or barber shop.) I've had friends and relatives tell me that if I come over to please leave the boys home. Neighbors have chased them out of their yards, and there are several kids their age who are forbidden to play with them. My boys aren't monsters, Abby, they are just rough and tough and hard to handle. It hurts me to see them treated this way although at times I could knock their heads together. They are too big for me to hit now. What should I do?

MOTHER OF THE WRECKING CREW
DEAR MOTHER: Your boys are paying the price for what you failed to teach them earlier. Now you must explain that unless they control their tempers and learn to get along with each other (and others) they will not be welcome anywhere. And keep them separated until they learn to get along with each other. And keep them home until they shape up.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl with an 18-year-old pen pal. We have been writing back and forth for about 6 months. His letters are fun to get, and I try to make mine interesting too. I never mentioned in my letter that I had a steady boy friend. Here's my problem.

I made the mistake of telling my steady boy friend about my pen pal and now he is jealous. He wants me to quit writing to him, but Abby, I don't want to quit. I don't see any harm in writing to a boy I've never seen. Has my boy friend the right to be jealous and demand that I quit writing to my pen pal? What should I do? I really care for my steady.

UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: If you really "care for" your steady, give up the pen pal. A bird in the hand is worth two in the mailbox.

Common Market Talks Bend on Chemicals

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The European Common Market Council of Ministers went a long way today in meeting American demands on trade in chemicals in the Kennedy Round of world trade talks.

The ministers of the six countries unanimously agreed on clearing the way for its negotiating team in Geneva to solve the controversial issue of lowering trade barriers on chemicals. They instructed negotiators to accept the compromise proposal made by Eric Wyndham White, secretary-general of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—GATT.

It would mean that the Common Market countries unconditionally will offer to lower by 20 per cent the duties on chemicals, before the United States has abolished the American Selling Price—ASP.

Under this system, duties on European chemical products are calculated on the basis of what the product sells for in the United States rather than the exporter's own price, and sends them very high.

After the abolition of the ASP the Common Market could lower duties by the remaining 30 per cent.

The Wyndham White proposal asked the United States to put 50 per cent duty ceiling on all chemical products, and special arrangements for dyes.

Ministers unanimously said "it was a good morning. We have made much progress."

Wednesday the ministers agreed with a U.S. proposal to give up the attempt to share out the world's grain markets and regulate farm price supports by international treaty.

Vegetarianism

Vegetarianism is believed by those who practice it to be a solution to the food problems of the world due to the population explosion. It is said that a meat eater requires two acres of land to produce his food, while a vegetarian requires only three-quarters of an acre.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market advances outnumbered losers in active trading early Thursday.

However, the averages were a little lower, indicating that buying interest wasn't in the blue chips.

Brokers said they were encouraged by the market's behavior in the early stages of its corrective reaction and hoped that the 875 level on the Dow Jones industrial average would hold.

Opening of trading in Montgomery Ward and MSL Industries was delayed following an announcement that Montgomery Ward will acquire MSL.

General Dynamics, which received a $1.82 billion contract for production of the F111 fighter-bomber, rose nearly 2 points.

Opening blocks included Ohio Edison, off ¼ to 28½ on 54,800 shares; Sperry Rand, up ¼ at 33½ on 19,700 shares; Grumman Aircraft, up 2½ at 39½ on 15,000 shares, and Campbell Soup, up ½ on 10,500 shares.

Wednesday The Associated Press 60-stock average declined 7 to 327.9.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Changes were fractional.

A special award went to Harry du Bois Frey, former general manager of the Kingston Freeman, for his dedication to the Kingston area.

It was pointed out that Frey had started with The Freeman in 1917, when the paper had a 6,000 circulation, and left it 50 years later with Freeman sales nearing the 20,000 mark.

"Here is a man who has spent 50 years building a business," Svirsky said, adding, "in doing so, he has helped to build a city."

The award was presented as "a small token of the great admiration and respect which is held for him and his record of community service."

Planning or Chaos

Guest speaker for the evening was John Calbreath Burdis, president of his own planning consultant's organization headquarters in Albany, and director of planning for Nassau County.

Utilizing colored slides to emphasize his remarks, Burdis effectively captivated his audience with a combination of wit and insight.

With shots of auto graveyards, burlesque dives, gigantic billboards eliminating scenic countryside and charming old homes, Burdis demonstrated the effectiveness of quality planning and preservation of the natural character of an area.

"Preservation is a major element for protection," he said, pointing out that "we tend to look at the big city and say, 'we'll do it that way,' but, he stressed, "all too often we cannot do it that way."

"We must have analysis . . . we must know where we are going," he said.

Burdis pointed out that when mapping out the future of a city, or an area, one had to consider the old and the young and how the needs and the comfort of each had to be respected.

Future Planning

"We tend to plan for ourselves rather than for the future," he said, and he warned, as a shot of a vast junkyard flashed across the screen, that "we may inherit scrap."

"Technologically we can tear down everything in sight," the planner informed, "or we can preserve . . . the area's integrity."

He spoke of rehabilitating the old buildings that defined an area and he showed, through the magic of the camera, how Cape Cod was losing its fine old historic character through a lack of commercial restraint, and an absence of rational restrictions.

"We can't think of individual buildings nowadays," he said, "but in terms of the whole scheme of things."

Speaking out against "rampanant progress," he asked his audience to control Kingston's architecture, protect its historic buildings, and wisely plan for its future development.

TALLIN, U.S.S.R. (AP) —

Five years ago the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda denounced jazz as "screamed out hysterical notes" sounding like "a streetcar racing around corners."

Four years ago, Nikita Khrushchev said jazz was "the kind of music that gives you a feeling of nausea and a pain in the stomach."

Three years ago denunciations of jazz as a corrupting, bourgeois influence were still heard. But Soviet youths kept playing it anyway, often in secret.

Two years ago they finally won official approval of jazz.

Blast in Baltic

Tonight, Soviet jazz comes of age with the opening of "the first world jazz festival in the Soviet Union" — as the Soviet press describes it — in this capital of Soviet Estonia on the Baltic Sea.

It is expected to run four days and to include performances by jazz combos from the United States, Britain, Sweden, Finland, Eastern Europe and cities throughout the Soviet Union.

Although the program is still unpublished, the Charles Lloyd quartet from the United States and Monty Sunshine's combo from Britain are among those expected to perform.

Also expected is Willis Conover, hear here for a decade on the Voice of America introducing jazz numbers on his "Music USA" program.

Radio Started It

It was largely from the Voice of America and the British Broadcasting Corporation that Soviet jazz buffs got their start.

With Western jazz records, sheet music and technique books unavailable in the Soviet Union, Russian jazz musicians taped foreign short-wave broadcasts. The tapes were replayed until the arrangements were transcribed for the musicians to practice.

American jazz musicians who have toured the Soviet Union and joined with Russians in informal jam sessions have expressed respect for the self-taught Soviet performers.

Soviet authorities have been trying to foster a home-grown variety of jazz. But what is called "Soviet-style jazz" resembles swing and the big-band sound of the 1930s and 1940s in America.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING....

Holding for Growth

Q "In your long experience with stocks, have you seen the average person of average income make more profit by long - term or short - term gains?" H.R.

A) You ask an interesting question on an investment fundamental. Older readers of this column will have a good idea as to my answer. After more than 40 years' experience with all types of investors, I am convinced that the wisest course for the average person is to buy and hold—for a reasonable period—stocks of sound companies working in expanding areas of the economy. Over the long term, this policy generally proves more profitable.

Playing short-term cycles of stock prices can be either very profitable or very costly depending primarily on the experience and judgment of the individual investor — and the sort of advice he gets. I know many persons who have made sizeable profits by investing for quick turns but they are almost always shrewd and knowledgeable people who have been around the financial community for years. And they always have access to sources of information not available to the average investor.

Q "I am 74 and retired and need your help badly: I have $2,000 in series E bonds due in 1970. My friends tell me I should redeem these bonds or the government will tax me when they become due. I prefer to keep them until maturity." A.M.

A) There is no reason at all why you should not do so. Your friends have in mind deferred federal income taxes on E bond accruals. These levies are payable at maturity, but you are equally payable if you redeem your bonds before they come due. Your holdings have been guaranteed an extension in 1970 and tax liability can again be deferred at that time. If your retirement income puts you in a low enough bracket, you might be able to redeem all or part of your bonds in some future year without tax liability at all.

Mass. Voters Decide on Income Tax

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts voters will again decide whether they want a graduate income tax, this one tied to the federal tax, the Massachusetts legislature voted in joint session.

The session Wednesday overwhelmingly rejected an amendment to lower the voting age to 18 or 19—a proposal that had the backing of leaders of majority Democrats.

The lawmakers also gave second approval to a constitutional change extending from five to ten days the time a governor may consider passed legislation. That moved it to the ballot in November, 1968, along with the graduated tax proposal, which also won the required second approval of a legislature.

The legislature rejected an amendment for an age 19 voting age on a 100-26 standing vote. The age 18 proposal was overwhelmingly turned down, on a 148-108 roll call.

Area Restoration Plans Applauded

Frank Wells McCabe, chairman of the Hudson River Valley Commission and prominent Albany banker, today commended the Columbia County Historical Society for its renewed effort to restore the Van Alen House at Kinderhook.

The Society's project, entitled Restoration 1737 is being formulated by Joseph Murell, director. Drive headquarters have been opened on Fourth Street in Hudson, and Paul Patchin, project developer has already begun the physical layout of the grounds surrounding the Kinderhook homestead.

Wide interest on a state and national level has been generated in the $100,000 Restoration 1737 drive since it was announced by Society President, Robert Cullen.

The mechanics of the fund raising program, aimed at bringing the restoration of the Van Alen House to an early conclusion, are now being organized. Individual working chairmen and committees will be announced soon.

Too Much Ammo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, the Pacific naval commander, complains he's being sent too much ammunition.

Adm. David L. McDonald, chief of naval operations, told a Senate Preparedness subcommittee about Sharp's problem in testimony given Feb. 21 and released in heavily censored form Wednesday.

McDonald said "we are in excellent shape in ammunition" in Southern Asia.

April Sales Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department reports a small drop in retail sales in April and a substantial slowdown in the growth of business inventories.

But the government's economic experts said Wednesday they're not worried about the sales drop. In fact, Alexander B. Trowbridge, acting commerce secretary, said there are indications the economy is building momentum for another move upward.

Just when that will occur depends on the consumer, labor demands, possible strikes and inventory adjustments, he said.

April sales totaled $25.67 billion, down four-tenths of one per cent from March's record level. In March, the department said, the monthly growth in business inventories was the slowest since October 1964.

Threaten Greek Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says he has warned Greece that U.S. military aid to that country may not be continued unless there is a return to democracy.

McNamara, returning Wednesday from the NATO defense ministers meeting in Paris, told reporters he talked with Gen. Gregorios Spandidakis, Greek deputy premier and defense minister. Spandidakis and other military men took over the government last month.

Capital Footnotes

President Johnson hopes to join the six New England governors at their meeting Monday in Windsor Locks, Conn., to discuss ways of improving communications between state capitals and Washington, the White House said Wednesday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says a five-foot spacecraft 130,000 feet above the earth opened as planned to deploy a parachute 40 feet in diameter. The test is part of experiments to find suitable parachutes for soft-landing instruments on Mars.

Price Tag for TFX Super Plane Nearly Doubled at $12 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, predicted today the Pentagon would pay up to $12 billion to get 1,300 F111 planes in the air — double the cost defense officials once estimated for 1,700 of the controversial aircraft.

The Arkansas Democrat coupled his prediction with a demand that the Air Force supply details of the $1.82 billion contract it signed Wednesday with General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., for 493 of the all-purpose planes, once known as the TFX.

$3.7 Million Each

The Air Force F111s will cost $3.7 million each but this does not include the engine, weapons control system of electronic navigation systems.

The F111 was ordered developed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as an all-purpose plane for the Air Force and Navy to help save on production costs.

The new contract calls for a fixed price incentive arrangement allowing General Dynamics a possible nine per cent profit if it meets a target cost of $1.67 billion.

This would permit a $15-million profit, with the company sharing in savings below the target cost and the government helping absorb any excess costs.

up to 15 per cent above the contract total.

The Air Force said the contract would cover 165 Air Force and Navy aircraft authorized by Congress in the fiscal year ending June 30. Australia would get 24 planes and Britain 50. The remainder of the 493 still lack congressional funding.

No Navy Planes

McClellan noted Congress prohibited the purchase of production models for the Navy in the year ending June 30.

"The Navy version is bogged down," he said. "They have no engine for it that will do the job and they can't test a new engine in the plane until next year."

The committee chairman said his over-all estimate of the final cost of the planes included research and development items running to about $1.3 billion. He said Air Force models will cost twice the original estimates and Navy models up to three times the first figures.

McClellan said he was glad the contract has been signed "because maybe now we will get some idea of the cost if we don't get the usual half-story from the Pentagon."

Public Safety Council Lists Three Anti-Crime Proposals

A lively meeting of the Public Safety Council at city hall Wednesday evening centered around some recommendations for the purposes of the Council, enforceable curfew laws in the city and county and crime and law enforcement in the Town of Esopus.

Constables Frank Bartroff of Port Ewen and Joseph Ferrac of Rifton participated actively in discussion of the problems of crime and juvenile delinquency. Bartroff stressed that the greatest problem in curtailing crime in his area lies in the reluctance of the persons offended to notify police for fear of retaliation by the offenders.

"This is true even with people who know that they are required to give their name when reporting the crime," Bartroff said, "but because crime is not reported, the criminals are left to spread their crimes."

Constable Ferrac, who organized the Rifton Youth Organization, backed by many county civic leaders, suggested such an organization on a county-wide level. He pointed out that youth needs handling by persons gifted with this particular skill. As a crime preventive, he recommended that storekeepers leave a light on during the night. This "cheap insurance" as he calls it, "is a great aid to police in their nightly rounds."

Pentagon Ousts Viet Protesters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-war protesters were banned from spending another night in the Pentagon after announcing plans for an indefinite live-in.

Security officers carried 18 youthful men and women from the building — the women on stretchers — when the demonstrators refused to leave on their own Wednesday.

A spokesman for the group said the demonstrators would attempt to re-enter the Pentagon this morning. Pentagon officials indicated they would be allowed in so long as they did not violate building regulations.

The demonstrators had been allowed to stay in the Pentagon from Tuesday afternoon until their Wednesday afternoon eviction. They slept outside the offices of the Joint Chiefs of Staffs, from which they were barred.

Officials said the protesters broke the rules Wednesday by distributing leaflets and handbills, thousands of which were pressed on members of the Pentagon's 33,000-man work force.
